

MORE MONEY NEEDED TO AID SUFFERERS OF THE DISASTROUS STORM THAT SWEEPED OVER THE COUNTY

SUFFERING IN STORM SWEEPED DISTRICT IS INTENSE. FINANCIAL AID NEEDED IMMEDIATELY TO HELP THOSE WHO'VE LOST EVERYTHING.

MANY PITIFUL CASES

Committee Found Many Cases Where Funds Could Be Used to Decided Advantage at Once and Make Appeal to Public for Further Aid as Regards Money.

Money and lots of it will be needed by the county Relief Committee before those who suffered from the effects of Saturday's storm November 11th are all cared for. In fact the committee, which went out yesterday through the Hanover and Orfordville districts spent all their available cash and even drew something on the future.

Money is needed and needed at once. Those who opened their purses freely on the first appeal for aid are urged to add to the funds raised and help in every way possible to urge others to join in the movement to increase the total of the money thus far received.

Contributors to the Relief Fund for the benefit of the cyclone sufferers would have felt doubly paid for the subscription they had made if they could have been with the committee yesterday as they made the trip through the devastated district to the west of Janesville. The spirit of brotherhood was alive in the breast of every man, and the assistance which at another time and under different circumstances might be looked upon by the sensitive mind as impossible was understood and accepted in the same spirit as it was given.

The total amount paid to sixteen families was $3,250 ranging in items from $50 to $400, as the loss and circumstances demanded, this with the relief checks which were given early last week amounting to $475 made a grand total thus far of $3,725.

The work of the committee yesterday was thorough and its investigation as complete as possible and with the reports of the workers who have been in the field daily since the catastrophe occurred a very good idea of conditions was secured.

The total loss in the district now over yesterday will run into thousands of dollars and those who have lost practically their life's work will need the aid of those more fortunate for many months to come.

Four automobiles carried the members of the County Relief Committee and members from Beloit and Janesville relief funds committee together with a supply of clothing, shoes, etc. The work of the expedition was greatly facilitated through the assistance of Supervisor Frank Roach of Hanover whose efforts of the past week among the sufferers has made him familiar with the conditions.

Starting out on the Center road the farm of John Huhle was visited. Conditions were bad here, and Mr. Huhle was assisted; further on, here also the storm had done much havoc and a check was issued by Treasurer Wm. Hadden. Going over then on Mineral Point avenue to the John G. Davis farm, Mr. Davis suffered severely, his new house was badly damaged, barns were down and the committee again drew a check.

Just below the Davis farm is the home of John Osgood, the property is in bad condition and with not enough insurance to nearly cover the loss. Mr. Osgood was not at home, but it was understood that the insurance company was causing him trouble in settling the loss a poor time to hang over a claim. Mr. Osgood's case will be looked after later.

Joseph Roehl's farm came next, the damage here was great and Mr. Roehl was in need of prompt assistance which was given.

At Willowdale the creamery is operated by C. L. Barnes who suffered completely and required immediate help. A check was drawn in Mr. Barnes' favor. It was here that the school house was demolished—not a stick of wood left to mark the place; and fortunately it was that the storm did not strike the day before when some thirty children were in the building.

A little beyond are the two Mooney homes—that of James Mooney, entirely wrecked, and Peter Mooney which was in a badly damaged condition, aside from the house which at present shelters both families, seventeen people occupying the premises. Both were given help. Emil Ross was a heavy loser and needed assistance. At the L. P. Eason farm, near Orfordville, the destruction was almost complete, and will require a stout heart to bring it back to anything like its former condition. The neighbors and friends are helping in many ways, but Mr. Eason needed assistance quickly and the committee helped him.

It was here that the storm wrenched and tore great trees out by the roots—one mammoth oak, which it required four men, stretching arms around, to encompass, was literally whipped to pieces; great limbs were torn off as if toothpicks. The Thompsons, near the Easons, was also unfortunate and relieved help as will Mr. Humana also, who is in the same district. Over towards Hanover, Gus, Helling suffered considerable loss, and here, too, the committee drew a check.

The most desolate place of the day's experience was found at the G. J. Schaffner farm, just out of Hanover. Nothing was left to show where, a short time ago, was a fairly place—every building was swept away, and escape from death here was miraculous. Mr. Schaffner was given a check.

Wm. Schuman of Hanover was given a check. He, too, lost considerably. Louie Lehman, who is still in the hospital on account of injuries received at the Schuman farm will receive some assistance.

The last place visited was the W. O. Douglas farm, near Hanover, and not far from the ill-fated Schmidt home. Much damage was done here, and the many discouragements which all sufferers are experiencing are being tactfully met by Mr. Douglas. Aid was given here, as elsewhere.

One very progressive fact noted in the entire district covered was that in almost every instance the windmills have been replaced. The Baker Company at Evansville sent out a gang of men immediately after the storm and rushed this important farm adjunct into place.

Progress in clearing away the wreckage is necessarily slow and in many cases it will take months or years to get things back to a semblance of their former condition.

The devastation from Beloit, consisting of Mayor Cunningham, E. T. Hanson, Theo. Henley and J. S. Hulse, were impressed with the serious conditions and all felt that much more money than the amount raised would be necessary to carry these afflicted through the winter.

Fred Gilliland of Evansville had been over the territory before and was familiar with conditions. His city has raised a nice sum of money.

G. A. Decker had been out with supplies several times and knew what and where to place clothing, shoes, etc.

L. C. Carle's big car was loaded with these articles and quantities were discussed along the route.

A. J. and James Harris have helped the good cause by allowing their autos to go out practically every day. Wallace Michelson, driver of the Arthur Harris car, has been a great help to those who have had the matter of distribution in charge, as has also Ray Maki, driver for James Harris.

The following is the list of contributions to the county relief within the past twenty-four hours. On the list will be found the name of Congressman H. A. Coomer, who sent his check for the aid of the storm sufferers:

Texas Captains in Session.
Vaco, Texas, Nov. 23.—A large and representative attendance marked the opening here today of the annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Reports prepared for presentation to the convention show the past year to have been one of remarkable activity and prosperity in the church, educational, missionary and other branches of the church work. The convention will remain in session until next Monday.

PASSENGERS ABOARD LINER JOACHIM ARE ON WAY TO NASSAU

Wireless Message From Steamer of Ward Line Says People Have Been Taken From Grounded Steamer.

New York, Nov. 23.—All the passengers of the steamship Prinz Joachim, which on Atwood Key, a remote island of the Bahamas, have been taken aboard the Ward line steamer Sigurana and are now on their way to Nassau. This news reached the Ward line office here today in a wireless message from the Sigurana which apparently had been relayed by the steamship Vigilance now at Nassau.

The message read: "Sigurana has all passengers from the Joachim. Bring to Nassau. Will arrive—Will keep you informed."

Apparently the time when the passengers are expected to reach Nassau had been lost from the message but at the Ward line office it was said that the Sigurana probably would reach Nassau between two and three o'clock this afternoon.

TESTIMONY GIVEN AIDS DEFENSE IN PATTERSON TRIAL

Dr. W. W. Mudd On Stand in Patterson Trial Gives Important Testimony.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 23.—Dr. W. W. Mudd called today as a witness in the trial of Corcoran, given Patterson for the alleged murder of her husband, Charles A. Patterson, proved to have testimony of value to the defense. Attorney Bouson of the prosecution declared that the physician's testimony came as a surprise to him.

Dr. Mudd rode in the ambulance with Mrs. Patterson when she was taken to the jail after the shooting. He corroborated the claims of the defendant that Patterson struck her by stating that there was a bloodstain looking spot on her cheek which she indicated to him in the course of their ride to the jail as the spot where her husband had struck her.

Dr. Stephen B. Parsons was placed on the stand as the next witness. His testimony concerned itself with a newspaper clipping said to relate the attention suit, which it is said Mr. Patterson had proposed filing against a Chicago millionaire.

Apple Show in Spokane.
Spokane, Wash., Nov. 23.—With the promise of welling all previous records in the wealth of exhibits and the accompanying festivities, Spokane's fourth annual National Apple Show opened today, to continue for one week. The exhibits range from carloads of apples down to a single plate of the fruit and represent practically all of the great orchard districts of the Pacific slope and the intermountain country.

PACKERS REFUSED A STAY OF TRIAL BY CHIEF JUSTICE

Attorneys Take Means at Once to Have Matter Passed Upon by the Entire Bench.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Chief Justice White today refused to grant a stay in the trial of the Chicago beef packers, but referred the attorneys making the application to the entire bench with the statement that the matter was of too much importance for him to pass on individually.

Attorney Miller announced that such an application to the entire court would be made at the first sitting the packers indicated that efforts will be made to have Judge Carpenter of the United States district court at Chicago before whom the indicted packers have been summoned for trial on Monday, to grant a further postponement until the supreme court passes on the application for a stay.

DR. WILLIAMS HAS COMPLETED WORK AT LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Three Hundred and Ninety-Eight Students Examined With Aid of Local Physicians, To Give Talk at Grade Schools.

Dr. Maud Williams, at work in Janesville as representative of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculous Association, has completed the examination of three hundred and ninety-eight students at the high school. This report on the conditions existing states that about seventy are in need of immediate attention to avert consumptive tendencies. The other cases are about normal.

Dr. Williams was pleased with the manner in which the students complied with the test and with the courteous attention which has been accorded her. Parents and teachers have aided greatly in the work.

Next week Dr. Williams will visit all of the grade schools in the city and will give talks to the students above the fourth grade. After that as many of them as possible will be examined.

On some date, to be named a little later, Dr. Williams plans to address the mothers, explaining to them the important matters to be attended to as a safeguard of their children's health and the easiest ways of treating present conditions. The meeting will probably be held some afternoon next week and all the mothers in the city are invited to be present.

At the high school tomorrow morning Dr. Williams will give an address to the students reporting the conditions which have been discovered in the recent examination.

BROTHERHOOD WAS FULLY ORGANIZED

Nearly a Hundred Sat Down to the Banquet at Which Brotherhood Was Organized.

Last evening at 6:45 at the Congregational church parlors about a hundred people attended the banquet and program of the Congregational Brotherhood. A solo by Mrs. Park was followed by an address by the president, Mrs. F. S. Hulme, in which he brought out the necessity of such an organization, its uses, needs, and the plans for the coming year. The committee for 1912 were also named as follows: Program and constitution, O. A. Onstoft; membership and reception, C. S. Cleland; music, F. P. Lewis; finance and philanthropy, T. O. Howe; Sunday Evening Auxiliary, Arthur M. Fisher; Boys' and Young Men's Work, Geo. F. Kimball; district visiting and helping, C. S. Cobb; Sunday School service, J. A. Crick; Missionary Interest, J. M. Whitehead; civil and municipal affairs, H. J. Cunningham; education and recreation, Prof. H. C. Budd; local and social reforms, C. H. Lange; personal and public health, Dr. Charles Sutherland; state, national and denominational relations, A. E. Matheson; refreshments, F. A. Capelle.

As part of the business of the evening the constitution of the Congregational Brotherhood was adopted. C. S. Cleland, W. S. Jaffie, J. M. Whitehead, A. E. Matheson and others were called on for a few remarks, after which Dr. Benton gave a short talk on "How to Get Acquainted." As a conclusion, the Young Men's Club entertained the company with a song; and the meeting was adjourned.

Individual Service Mornings

AMERICAN ARMY TO BE READY FOR WAR ON CHINESE SOIL

Army Officers in Manila Receive Word to Hasten the Usual Endurance Tests.

Manila, Nov. 23.—The American army officers stationed in the vicinity of Manila today began the physical test which has been ordered by the military authorities.

This is to prepare them for a possible call of volunteers for service in China for which purpose it is intended to raise the 15th infantry arriving here on Dec. 1st to was strength.

Division headquarters are very busy. The hospital corps and the engineer corps are being fitted out with winter equipment.

No information is given out officially but it is admitted that the 15th regiment is to be re-enforced as a precautionary measure and that the troops will be ready to start for China two days after their arrival here.

Personal Jealousy.
Chicago, Nov. 23.—Further factious jealousy has now been presented by the appointment of an executive council consisting of eight members, four of whom were chosen by the radicals and four by the moderates. Additional troops are being sent to Sun-Chow and Quomoy to preserve order.

Relatives Have No Hopes of His Conversion But Pastor Certain of It.
Richmond, Nov. 23.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who at the usual time this morning on what by law was last day of his life, Tomorrow shortly after daybreak he will die in the electric chair for the murder of his young wife.

There were no signs of breakdown this morning, the prisoner drawing with the same indifference care that he has taken ever since he entered the state penitentiary and the death cell.

Rev. John J. Fix put in an appearance early and probably will remain with Beattie during the day. The elder Beattie, Douglas Beattie, a brother of the accused man and the attorneys who defended him in the trial that ended in his conviction of murder, joined the minister soon afterward.

Neither Beattie's attorneys or his relatives believe he will confess. His spiritual advisors are of another opinion. They entertain the hope amounting almost to conviction that he will do so.

"If he is guilty I feel reasonably certain that he will acknowledge all," said Rev. Dr. Fix. "To go to his death with a lie on his lips would be sacrilege and besides he is at peace with his Master."

The fact remains, however, that through all the ordeal attending his trial and conviction, young Beattie has set in every way to spare his aged father. The elder Beattie is said still to believe in the innocence of his son. It is a question whether the condemned man does not consider that he owes it to his father to whom he has brought so much pain and so much disgrace to go to his death with sealed lips.

SUFFRAGETTE GETS A PRISON SENTENCE

Leader of Tuesday's Riot in London Sentenced to Month's Imprisonment.

London, Eng., Nov. 23.—Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, the head and front of Tuesday's suffragette riot was sentenced today to a month's imprisonment. She did not flinch. According to the evidence, Mrs. Lawrence, at the head of thirty women, stormed the police. She struck a policeman in the face twice and struggled for fifteen minutes when she was arrested and taken away.

MEMBERS OF TAR PARTY SCORED IN COURT BY LAWYER

Chester Anderson and "Dirty Dozen" Bitterly Attacked by Attorney McKerby.

After two hours and a half of argument by attorneys at morning session of court the tar party case went to jury today.

Lincoln Center, Kan., Nov. 23.—Col. Hille followed the lead of his colleague attorney McKerby last night in the "tar party" case by making a bitter attack on the "dirty dozen" of lawyers in general and of Chester Anderson in particular. "It was with this crowd that the plan had its inception," he said. "These defendants did not originate it or put any party in the execution of it."

Regarding the meeting at the mill the speaker said that it could not be taken as proof that the defendants intended to take part in the assault. It was pointed out that Schmidt and Blinn who were without their hats and returned to their homes to get them before they started to the "party." Had they planned to join the band, insisted the attorney, they would have worn their hats.

BULLETIN EXPLAINS NEW COUNTY SCHOOL

Report Made By Prof. Johnson of Milwaukee on County Agricultural Schools.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 23.—Prof. A. A. Johnson, principal of the new Milwaukee county school of agriculture, and former principal of the La Crosse county school of agriculture and domestic economy, has written a government bulletin on "County Schools of Agriculture and Domestic Economy in Wisconsin" which has just been issued by the United States department of agriculture. It contains illustrated accounts of the work done at the following schools: Waunakee, Marathon county; Menominee, Dunn county; Winnebago, Winnebago county; Marinette, Marinette county; Oshkosh, La Crosse county. Mention is made also of the new Stillman high county school, Racine county also noted to establish one.

"Wisconsin was the first state in the union to organize a county school of agriculture and domestic economy," writes Mr. Johnson. "The early history of secondary agricultural education in this state dates back to the winter of 1899, when the state legislature appointed Dr. L. D. Harvey, then state superintendent of public instruction, a commissioner to investigate and report upon the methods of procedure in this and other states and countries in manual training and in theories and arts of agriculture in the public schools. The legislature of 1901 passed a law embodying the recommendations of Dr. Harvey and permitted the establishment of two schools. This law has since been amended to permit the establishment of ten schools.

"Secondary agricultural education in Wisconsin is largely adapted to the conditions found in the counties where such schools are located. Special efforts are made to furnish additional special facilities for schooling to the thirty-four out of every hundred rural and urban school children who would otherwise finish their education with the common schools. These county schools are, strictly speaking, agricultural trade schools and have for their sole object the educating of the farmers' boys and girls who do not wish to take up an extensive college course, but who are anxious to get that form of training which will be most useful to them when they take charge of the home farm or the farm home. The school is made the educational center of the community, and the farmers are free to call upon it for assistance in any line of work pertaining to farming and home making.

The cost of maintaining the Wisconsin schools is given as follows for 1910-1911: Marathon, $5,933.35; Dunn, $10,125.70; Winnebago, $7,044.50; Marinette, $7,150; La Crosse, $14,281.02."

TRAIN LOADED WITH A HUNDRED PERSONS DIVES INTO RIVER

SIXTY LIVES THOUGHT SACRIFICED IN ACCIDENT AT SAUMUR, FRANCE, THIS MORNING.

Trestle Weakened by Recent Floods Allows Entire Train to Drop Into Rushing Current—A Few Are Saved.

Saumur, France, Nov. 23.—Sixty passengers, it is estimated, lost their lives through the plunging of a train into the river Rhoset this morning owing to the breakdown of a bridge on the state railway at Montreuil-Bellay in the department of the Maine-et-Loire.

Many Passengers.
The train, which had started from Angers, was traveling to Poitiers. It contained 100 passengers. While it was crossing the bridge over the Rhoset, the structure, which had been greatly weakened by recent floods, broke crashing with the whole of the cars into the swollen stream.

Some Saved.
Many of the passengers who succeeded in getting out of the cars through the window tried to save themselves by clinging to the tops of trees which showed above the surface of the water.

Washed Away.
In most cases, however, they were quickly washed away by the rushing current. All the boats in the locality had been carried off by the inundations so that it was impossible for the people of the neighborhood to assist much in the work of rescue.

No exact information is yet available as to the number of victims or as to the number of those rescued.

FIVE GOVERNORS AT RURAL LIFE MEETING

Head List of Speakers at National Country Life Conference Opened Today in Spokane.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 23.—With the governors of five states heading the list of speakers, the National Country Life Conference which was informally opened here today with the reception of delegates promised to be the most notable and profitable conference ever held by the United States to aid in the betterment of the conditions of rural life. The congress will be in session six days. At the opening today the delegates were welcomed by Governor May. Included among those in attendance were well known educators, bankers, editors, business men and agricultural experts from all over the Northwest. Farm betterment, increased production, good roads, transportation, market problems, the rural social center, and the development and improvement of the work of the rural church are the leading topics scheduled for discussion.

Charities and Correction.
Columbia, S. C., Nov. 23.—Columbia today welcomed a large number of distinguished visitors from all parts of South Carolina, who have gathered in the city for the third annual State Conference of Charities and Correction. The sessions will last two days and will be devoted to the discussion of a wide range of subjects. President Mitchell of the University of South Carolina, Frank B. Gary of Abbeville and other persons of wide prominence are on the program for addresses.

Literary Interpretation.
A snookthief had got into the car and made off with a fellow-traveler's pocketbook. A haysced, who was evidently on his first trip to the city, had taken the episode in with a certain amount of relief, and despite his supposed greenness, apparently knew more about the identity of the guilty one than anyone present, when the alarm was raised. He touched the conductor on the arm and pointed to a man who was hurrying down the block for dear life. "There's the thief," he chuckled dryly. The conductor turned on him sharply. "You fool! If you saw 'im pickin' th' gent's pocket why didn't yer report 'im 'stead of lettin' 'im slip off that way?" That sign up there scared me," returned the haysced. "What sign?" "Th' one that sez 'Be ware of Vlekpedlets'."—Exchange.

REMEMBERS CITY AS A PIONEER VILLAGE OF BUT ONE HOUSE

CAME TO JANESVILLE IN 1835,
IS NOW EIGHTY-FOUR YEARS OF AGE.

IS LIVING AT COLUMBUS

Tells Interesting Tale of the Early Days in This Community—Enjoys
Stories of Growth of City.

Few Janesville people know that there is now living a woman who saw the site of Janesville when it was a wilderness, and lived in the first log cabin built within its borders. At Columbus, Wisconsin, Mrs. Harvey McCafferty, hale and hearty at the age of eighty-four years has vivid recollections of Janesville in 1835. When a girl seven years old, she came with her father, Samuel St. John, to occupy the cabin just built at the edge of Rock river opposite the big rock at Monterey. Mrs. McCafferty's story is an interesting one, and has not been incorporated so far in any of the histories of Janesville.

Her father, Samuel St. John, started from Castleton, Vermont, in the spring of 1835 with his wife and three children to drive to Michigan. He was a man of means, and intended to come West to purchase land and to take the summer to see the country and decide upon a location. So he drove leisurely, making side trips to places of interest, and reached Michigan in September of that year. An uncle was living there, and that state, but the sandy and stony soil was disappointing, and he went on to Chicago. There he met Mr. William Holmes who had just built a cabin on Rock river, opposite the Big Rock, which was the first structure of any kind within what is Janesville, and had gone to Chicago for supplies. The glowing accounts which Holmes gave of the Rock river valley encouraged Mr. St. John to come to this neighborhood, and he accompanied Mr. Holmes on his return to the valley of the Rock, arriving there, as Mrs. McCafferty remembers, on the first of October, 1835.

Mrs. McCafferty has vivid recollections of the beauty of the Rock river valley as they saw it at that time and in succeeding years before it was broken up. All along the river, on both sides, were oak openings—splendidly large trees interspersed with grassy spots. The prairies, as far as one could see, were vast fields of flowers from spring to fall, one kind of flowers

MRS. McCAFFERTY, succeeding another throughout the year. The bare slope of the gravel hill at the foot of main street was then covered with luxuriant growth of cedars, and there was a forest of great oaks on top.

As the histories of Janesville tell, Mr. St. John and his family, Mr. William Holmes, and two other men, nine souls in all, occupied the little cabin during the winter of 1835 and 1836. The structure was sixteen feet square, and stood about opposite the Big Rock, just at the foot of Milwaukee's bluff. It faced east and had a fireplace of stone on the northern end. Accommodations for the nine people were made by building bunks around two sides of the cabin, one above the other, somewhat after the manner of berths in a sleeping car. The choice of that location for the building was due to the fact that there was a rapids in the river there, and a fording place, and the Big Rock was a noted landmark and rendezvous for travelers upon the river, as it had been for many years among the Indians. These pioneers suffered the winter in this cabin in the wilderness far from any other human habitation. Mrs. McCafferty remembers that the wolves looked in the cabin windows during the long nights before spring.

In January, 1836 a boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. St. John, and named both, and both St. John was thus the first white child born in the new settlement. For a time the dwellers in the cabin were the only settlers at Janesville, and that remained the only structure until the succeeding year when Mr. Holmes built a cabin on the opposite side of the river.

In June of the following year Mrs. McCafferty's mother died and was buried on the hill overlooking the city on the Beloit road, a place she had chosen herself, in a rude coffin made by cutting up a wagon box as there was no lumber at hand, and the nearest place at which supplies could be had was at Ottawa, Illinois, and it required a week's time to make the journey there and back.

In the spring of 1836 Mr. James came to locate in the Rock river valley and built a cabin near where the Myers House now stands, about fifteen rods east of the river.

After Mrs. St. John died the family was broken up, and Mrs. McCafferty came up to live with Mr. James in his cabin, near what is now the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets. Mrs. McCafferty remembers Mr. James as a tall, fine looking man, but uneducated. The cabin was what was called a double cabin in those days, having two rooms. It faced east and had a fireplace in the middle of the west wall towards the river. The road ran on the east side of the cabin, somewhat farther away from the river than Main street now is for a better crossing of a deep gully which ran into the river about where the R. M. Boat-wick building is located. Mrs. McCafferty remembers a beautiful grove of trees immediately south of that gully, extending far back from the river.

The Indians in the neighborhood at that time were Pottawatamies and Winnebagoes, and were all friendly. Blackhawk and the Sioux had been sent west of the Mississippi the year before. She remembers their encampment in Blackhawk and that they burned the log cabin they had out there for a year after. The friendly Indians would gladly exchange a whole ham of venison or a large fish for a handful of flour or meat. All kinds of game were abundant, deer roamed almost everywhere, and the river was full of fish.

Mrs. McCafferty's father took up six hundred acres of land which was located south of the city and west of what is now the Beloit road. Mrs. McCafferty remained at Janesville until 1843 when she married and moved to Columbus, Wisconsin, where she still lives with her husband and daughter. She is now a tall, fine looking, fresh-cheeked old lady, vigorous and works actively every day. She and her daughter Mrs. French, have for many years conducted a store for the sale of home-made candy in one of the rooms of their house, which is on one of the main streets in Columbus, and their candy has been famous in Columbus and its vicinity for many years.

Mrs. McCafferty's husband was interested in race horses, owned a number and was in the business most of his active life. He and some other men took a noted race horse to New Orleans in the fall and came back laden with a small fortune, but like many others who follow that precarious business, Mr. McCafferty's money vanished and he is now in feeble health. Mrs. McCafferty made several visits to Janesville, but the last was about thirty years ago. Dr. St. John is her cousin.

Miss Susan Jeffris has in her possession a wooden pin, a relic of that historic cabin in Monterey, which her father secured and kept after the building was torn down many years ago.

MAN ROLLS DOWN A STEEP EMBANKMENT

Peter Farrell of Shopers Takes Tumble of Several Rods and is Rescued by Human Chain.

Voering off his collar while he was voyaging on foot to his home in Shopers, with a supercargo of ardent spirits, Peter Farrell fell over a high embankment near Hub's brewery between six and seven o'clock last evening, and rolled to the bottom of the slope, a distance of over four rods. Had it not been for the narrow flat at the bottom and his want of momentum he would have rolled into the pond. Brewery employees coming from their work heard him groaning and came to his rescue, removing him from his unpleasant position to the top of the slope by means of a human chain. The police patrol was called and Farrell removed to the police station. He pleaded guilty in the municipal court this morning to a charge of intoxication and in default of a fine of $4 and costs was sentenced to ten days in jail.

Frank Alden, who was in court a short time ago on a charge of drunkenness, "repeated" this morning. He offered to sign the pledge, but Judge Fifield, though agreeing that it was a good idea, thought Alden's conduct did not warrant his being dismissed and gave him a ten days' sentence. William Crook, promised to buy a ticket and leave for Madison on the next train if he was let go. The case was held open and he was dismissed. Crook has been working in the sugar factory for over a week.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HONORS MISS BUTLER

Girls' Class of Baptist Church Have Banquet at Emil Bowerman's in Honor of Departing Member.
The members of the Sunday school class of the Baptist church held a banquet last night at seven o'clock at the home of the secretary, Emil Bowerman. The affair was in honor of Sophronia Butler, who left this morning for Evanston, Ill., where she will take up studies at Northwestern university.

PATRICK MULCAIRNS A PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Dies at County Hospital An Hour After Removal From Police Station—Ill But Short Time.

Patrick Mulcairns died at nine o'clock last night at the county hospital, an hour after he had been removed there by four Commissioners. The cause of his death was pneumonia and spinal meningitis. Mulcairns came to the police station Tuesday afternoon not feeling very well and Chief of Police Appleby gave him as comfortable a place as he could find. Yesterday afternoon he became rapidly worse and was taken with a spasm. Dr. R. W. Edson was summoned. He found the patient's pulse very weak and gave him a hypodermic injection. Michael Duff called for his brothers and on their arrival they called the Rev. Dean Rolley and Dr. Frank B. Farnsworth. County Poor Commissioner Anderson came later in the afternoon and sent for Dr. T. W. Nuzum, county physician. In order that he might receive care and more suitable quarters he was removed to the county hospital but he was near death when he arrived there and died soon afterward. The remains of the deceased were removed to the Ryan undertaking establishment and the afternoon of the home of the mother, Mrs. M. Mulcairns, 413 Center avenue. Funeral services will be held at nine o'clock Saturday morning at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church, and interment will be made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

TUBES AND PILING HAVE BEEN SHIPPED FOR THE NEW BRIDGE

Work Soon to Be Started on New Fourth Avenue Structure—May Not Finish Racine Street Bridge This Winter.

City Engineer C. V. Korch was informed this morning that steel tubes and piling for the abutments of the new bridge to span the Rock river on Fourth avenue had been shipped from the factory of the Central States Bridge company and that construction work would be started within a few days. Machinery which has been used in building the Racine street bridge will be moved up to the site of the new structure this week. The assistants of Engineer Korch have finished surveying for the location of the bridge and are prepared to give the constructing engineers all the data needed for the first steps in construction.

Work on the Racine street bridge has been practically confined to steel work since the big storm and accompanying freeze-up. Concrete floors had been laid on two spans previous to that time and no more has been laid since. The brick for paving is on the ground. Steel railings are being put in at the outer edge of the spans, where the sidewalks will be placed.

The prospects are that the bridge can not be completed and opened for traffic this season. The Chicago & Northwestern railway, whose half line must be elevated before an approach to the bridge from the west side can be secured, demands that the city pay them $2,400 for doing the grading. The city is not disposed to pay this much for the work and will attempt to make other arrangements.

Mr. Main, engineer for the Wisconsin division, is expected here soon, and the city and railway may come to terms at that time. The fill under the railway tracks will have to be started at the pumping station and will extend as far as Rock street.

NEW SCOUT MASTER CALLS FOR MEETING

L. E. Bookout Will Meet Local Scouts Friday Afternoon at Five O'Clock—Commissioners Meet.

L. E. Bookout, recently elected scout master by the local scout commissioners, has called for a meeting of the Janesville Scouts tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock at the Spanish War Veterans' hall. At this time he will outline work for the future and begin the active scout work. Mr. Bookout has a number of interesting plans which he expects to propose and is enthusiastic over the prospects for the winter.

At the meeting of the Scout commissioners and ministers of the city churches at the Gazette office last evening, ways and means of forwarding the Scout movement in Janesville were considered. Among the suggestions offered which will undoubtedly be carried out is the securing of various men in the city to address the boys for a few minutes at their regular meetings.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Orpha Waggoner.
Funeral rites for the late Mrs. Orpha Almyra Waggoner were held this morning at the Seventh Day Baptist church, the Rev. W. W. Stebbins conducting the services. Four grandsons of the deceased were pall-bearers. They were Gilbert, Hugh, Ray, and Irwin Waggoner. The remains were taken to Afton for burial. Many sorrowing relatives and friends paid their last respects to the aged woman whom they loved and respected. Many flowers were in evidence.

Ferdinand Schumaker.
Last services for the late Ferdinand Schumaker were held this afternoon, from the home, 816 Western avenue, at one-thirty, and from St. Paul's German Lutheran church at two o'clock. The Rev. C. J. Koerner officiated. Six of the eight sons of the deceased, Emil, Fred, Herman, Frank, Charles, and Walter, were the pall-bearers. The remains were laid to rest in Oak Hill cemetery.

REMOVE JOE WOLITZ TO COUNTY HOSPITAL

Aged Bachelor Found Seriously Sick by Neighbors at His Home Near Mount Zion.

Joe Wolitz, a bachelor over eighty years old, who has been living alone at his home one and a half miles from Mount Zion, was found very seriously ill by neighbors last evening. He was lying on the floor and those who came to his assistance could not get him into bed. County Poor Commissioner Asa Anderson was notified of the situation and went out there this morning with County Physician Nuzum. Wolitz was found suffering from bronchitis and pneumonia and was removed to the county hospital for treatment. Because of his advanced age and run-down condition recovery is doubtful. He has been living in abject circumstances and neighbors have had to help him. He slept in the police station here two nights last week.

AMOS PARKER WILDER

SAFE-GUARDING AMERICANS IN CHINA.

Madison, Wis.—In the midst of the present epoch upheaval in the Chinese empire stands the figure of an American. When American lives and property were in danger the call for protection came. The American answered the call. American warships responded to guarantee safety for all having citizenship rights under the stars and stripes. This man was Amos Parker Wilder of Madison, Wisconsin, American consul-general at Shanghai, graduate of Yale and close friend of William H. Taft.

When years ago Gen. Edward S. Dring of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, bore a rifle to the Iron Brigade retired as consul at Hongkong, President Roosevelt selected Mr. Wilder, then a Madison newspaper editor to fill the vacancy. The consular service was in dire need of men with broad training who would see the commercial possibilities of the east from the western viewpoint and with cultural endowments supplementing his native genius. Dr. Wilder took command of the Hongkong situation with energy and in a remarkably short time began to receive the compliments of the government for his peculiar ability in that difficult post.

With the coming of President Taft to Washington, Dr. Wilder was transferred to the larger field at Shanghai. The business interests on both sides find in him an able mediator and one ever alert to advance the commercial interests of his own country.

Dr. Wilder is 48 years old and a native of Maine. After graduating from Yale he was editor of the New Haven Palladium. In 1894 he came to Wisconsin and bought the Wisconsin State Journal in Madison, which he has recently disposed of. His family is in California where his four children are being educated.

CONQUEROR OF JOE HYLAND.

FOURTH, 11.—Harry Donahue, the former light weight champion, established his status as a composite of the lightweight title when he defeated Fighting Joe Hyland the Cleveland wonder.

Donahue, is a clever boxer and has a wallop that put the Cleveland boy to the mat four times in ten rounds of rapid striking. Donahue is out after the Cleveland champion, Earl Fox, of Louisville. He has defeated Stewart Donnelly of Indianapolis, Jim Murphy of Chicago, Ruddy Donk of Cincinnati, Frankie White of Chicago, and many other stars of the squared circle.

JEWS MAKE APPEAL TO TAFT.

Washington, D. C.,—Prominent Jews of the United States, are making an appeal to President Taft for an abrogation of the Russian treaty in view of the alleged discriminations against American Jews in Russia. Julius Rosenwald of Chicago; Col. Isaac N. Ullmann of New Haven, Conn.; Harry Cutler of Providence, R. I. and Judge Julian Mack of the Commerce Court, have gone to Washington to treat personally with the President soliciting his influence toward affecting the passage of the resolution now in Congress calling for the abrogation of the treaty of 1820 with Russia.

The strong personal friendship said to be felt by President Taft toward Mr. Rosenwald and Judge Mack, it is believed will bear great weight on the President's attitude. President Taft during one of his recent speeches in Chicago commended the philanthropy of Julius Rosenwald on his contribution of $25,000 for the establishment of Y. M. C. A. organizations for negroes throughout the United States. Judge Mack is one of the President's appointees to the Commerce Court.

Brer Rabbit, the Hero.

The folklore tales of the south and of the West Indies are often similar, the only difference being in the hero of the plot. Brer Rabbit is the hero of southern folklore tales; Bo Anancy takes the leading part in the West Indian epic. Geographical dissimilarity of origin explains the difference; the rabbit stories are of Congolese or Iantio origin; Anancy stories originated on the gold coast. The rabbit was the totem from which the Iantio were supposed to be descended, while the Tshi-speaking tribes, from whom West Indian negroes trace their descent, had the anancy, or spider, as their totem. In the Anancy stories wild animals have the gift of speech; they converse freely with men, and live on easy social terms with them.—Samuel B. Jones, in the Southern Workman.

In the Garden of Eden.
 "Did you know this was my birthday?" asked Eve.
 "Could I forget it?" answered Adam.
 "Let's see—how old are you, this year—now don't answer—let me guess. Your age—ah—seven!"
 "You hateful wretch!" cried Eve.
 "I'm only five, and you know it."
 "But that is just like you men—you try to pretend that the time is dragging and that your wives are growing old! Just because you are over six, and have lots of gray hairs, you think you can insult your wife!"
 Eden was never the same after that.

At a Disadvantage.
 "I suppose you will miss your boy while he is at college."
 "Yep," replied Farmer Cornossei.
 "I dunno what I will do without him. He got the live stock so they wouldn't move unless he give 'em the college yell, an' I can't remember it."

Hopeful of Results,
 "Your wife is taking a tremendous interest in abstruse economic questions." "Yes," replied Mr. Meekton; "and I'm glad of it. Maybe it will result in her conversation's putting me to sleep instead of keeping me awake."

BRITISH AMBASSADOR WHO MAY RESIGN.

Montreal, Canada.—Speculation is a charge is that Mr. Bryce by his attitude in cooperation with President British Ambassador at Washington Taft as the initiative of the rapprochement between the two countries. Mr. Bryce feels himself placed in an uncomfortable position by the elaborate discussion acted as a politician rather than an ambassador, and entirely fails to inform the British and Canadian governments of what seemed to them as jeopardizing the Imperial interests. Sir Edward Grey, Colonial Secretary stoutly and almost angrily defends Mr. Bryce.

PLENTY OF MONEY NEEDED.

While money has been freely contributed, for the storm sufferers, there is urgent need for every dollar, and no fear need be entertained that the work will be overdone. Ask any one of the dozen men who went through the western part of the district on a mission of relief yesterday, and they will tell you that instead of the $3,000 paid out in sums ranging from $50 to $100, that ten times the amount was needed and then only a fraction of the loss would have been met.

A number of places were visited where from $2,500 to $3,000 would fall to replace the property destroyed. Some of the people are living in one or two rooms which have been patched up for temporary shelter, while others, where everything is swept away are staying with the neighbors.

Two brothers, whose farms adjoined, are living together—eighteen people in all—in a little six-room house. Conditions are beyond description, and must be seen to be appreciated. Nothing is left on the Schaffner farm near Hanover, but the wife. The cellar under the kitchen is the only thing to show where the house stood, and dead stock scattered about is the only evidence that there was once a barn. Mrs. Schaffner is now in the hospital. How any of the half dozen occupants escaped is a miracle.

Many of these unfortunate people owned their farms, but were heavily in debt, and some of them have not recovered from the dazed condition which the great shock produced. Every family assisted yesterday ought to be given as much more within thirty days.

The farmers of the county ought to be induced in some way to turn out and help clean up the wreckage and lend a hand in helping to restore the buildings. The stricken people are entitled to the sympathy as well as the work, and it should be bestowed with liberal hand.

Twenty men, with half a dozen teams, could perform wonders, and there is every reason why a dozen outfits of this kind should be on the ground. The people in the towns and cities are giving money and clothing freely, and the people in the country should be glad to do their share.

Don't be afraid of giving too much of either time or money. These people are at our door in dire distress, and for the sake of humanity, let's lend a hand. The committee is out covering the balance of the district today and a full report will follow.

Street Commissioner Wilkins has decided that the city ordinance that requires property-owners to keep their walks clean this winter is a good one and should be rigidly enforced. Good for Wilkins. If he keeps the walks as clean as he has the streets he will make a new record for this department.

The last real big football games of the year are to be on Saturday next when Chicago meets Wisconsin in the west, and Harvard plays Yale in the east. After each season the cry of professionalism comes to the front, but is lost sight of before the next fall.

The industrial exhibition at the West Side rink is well worth visiting. It shows what Janesville factories can produce and the showing is most surprising to persons not acquainted with the home town products.

The faith the little people have in Santa Claus is touching. It should be encouraged as one of the sweet dreams of childhood. Too soon the little people grow up and the stern realization of life is thrust upon them.

Washington street has not yet been improved but it will soon and the rats will be filled up with snow and ice and make the last trip to the home of the dead at least comfortable.

This question of doing your shopping early this year is again one of public interest. The country through, think it over and make your purchases in time to avoid the eleventh hour rush.

The physical examinations that are being conducted by Dr. Maud Wilkins among the public school children are most excellent and no parent should object to the examinations being made.

The State Anti-Tuberculosis Association has again started its sale of Christmas stamps. It is a cause that deserves support and just at this time it is easy to give.

The get-rich-quick proposition is something that appeals to the average person until the climax comes and all the capital and profits are swept away.

Dryan is shipwrecked down off the coast of Jamaica. This being shipwrecked is nothing new to W. J. D., but some of the other passengers may not be so well prepared for it.

They are deciding great things down in New Orleans, those bankers, and soon we may all feel the results of their investigations and diverse opinions.

Rock county has been widely advertised by the recent cyclone, but it is not the kind of advertising that pays and it should not be repeated.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By Roy K. Moulton.

NOT YET, BUT SOMETIME. Ma says that I'm a thankless child. That she has treated me too mild. And that I almost set her wild. I guess she's pretty middlin' mad. She took me out into the shed And asked away all I was red.

Not only that, but what she said, Made me wish I was big as Dad. If I was big as Dad, you bet, I'd have my way and never fret About the jawn I would get. And have no cause for feelin' sad. I'd never do a single chore. I'd smoke ten times a day or more And drop my ashes on the floor. If I was only big as Dad, I'd never have to wipe my feet. When I came in from off the street To keep the parlor lookin' neat. And Ma, she wouldn't dare get mad. And with my knife I'd cut my pie The same when company was by As when there were no strangers nigh.

If I was only big as Dad, When to my dinner I'd be late, And make the folks all wait and wait, I wouldn't get licked, sure as fate, Ma'd net as though she was glad. I wouldn't have to go up stairs, At 6 o'clock and say my prayers, And never go out anywhere, If I was only big as Dad. Thankgivin' day they wouldn't dare To eat up all the bill of fare And save the gizzard for my share. No second table would be had. And when I told a joke they'd smile And call me funny, quite a pile. And not be knockin' all the while, If I was only big as Dad.

HINTS TO THE LOVELORN. Parcel—You say you are looking much sloop and that your waking hours are full of worry because you are afraid Agnes does not love you. There is one sure test which should decide the matter once for all. The next time you call upon her, carefully place a travelling upon the shoulder of your coat where she will be sure to see it. If she picks it off she loves you, but if she says no attention to it there is nothing doing for you.

Allicent—You say the postage stamp on his last letter was stuck on cornwise and upside down. This means "I am infatuated with you and will marry you if you will do your own washing and ironing and will promise never to leave your mother come and visit you."

Fortens—You say that your intended is engaged in making the rounds of the country folks reading palms, and ask if there is any future in this business. We believe that there must be, there also must be a past and present, if he is any good palm reader at all.

Ostrich Farm Growing. The Hagenbeck ostrich farm at Stellingen, near Hamburg, was founded three years ago, and is growing rapidly in importance as well as size. It was Mr. Hagenbeck's theory that the ostrich, although a native of tropical or hot countries, would thrive in colder localities, and as a result be stronger in health and grow a heavier coat of feathers.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A WOMAN BEHIND HIM.

A correspondent asks me, "What was the greatest force in the life of George Washington?"

I am glad to answer in a word: His mother. George Washington was in a peculiar sense a "mother's boy." His father died when he was but ten years old, leaving the widow with six children, of whom George was the eldest, and upon her firstborn Mary Washington put the impact of her forceful character. She was a great woman.

At the age of sixteen George wanted to "run away" and seek adventures, but his mother kept a tight grip on the boy's affections, and he stayed. Shortly came a great test.

The thunder clouds of black war burst with a startling crash over the devoted heads of the American colonists. The Washingtons were wealthy landowners. Which side would they take?

The son of Mary Washington, nobly backed by his patriot mother, cast his lot with the "rugged Continentals." When the Continental congress turned toward, when he was constantly beset with spies and jealous generals, it was the spirit of his self-sacrificing mother, joined to his own indomitable patience, that kept him on the field of honor.

And later—When the long red years of war were ended it was the mother spirit within him that asked no greater reward than peacefully to retire to his quiet farm. He was no conqueror, Napoleon.

It is gratifying to know that Mary Washington lived to see the boy of her pride made the first president of the republic.

Where got he that self-abnegation, that high courage and faith? There was a woman behind him.

Do you remember that old rule of physics about finding the striking force of a moving body? You multiply the velocity of the moving body—let's correctly remember—by the weight of the body, and that gives the striking force. So of a man.

Multiply his best endeavors by his heredity (his ancestors) and you get the impact, the striking force of that man upon the society of his day. Therefore to get the striking force of George Washington you must multiply the man by his mother.

London's Charm. One of London's most engrossing charms is that it is an epitome of the whole world—the cosmos in little. Whatever one may be in search of or whatever one may wish to have definite information about, he can find it, if he will, in London.

SHAVING MIRROR IS USEFUL

Enables User to Get Excellent View of Back of His Neck—Red Holds Glasses in Position.

Many men shave themselves, but even those who use safety razors seldom attempt to shave the backs of their necks. Usually they wait until they have their hair cut and have the barber do it. A Missouri man, however, has designed a mirror which enables a man to get a good view of the back of his neck and makes the shaving of that hitherto inaccessible region easy.

Neck Shaving Mirror.

The mirror is mounted in a frame that fits around the neck and rests upon the shirt bosom. A jointed rod holds the glass in any position desired in front of the wearer's face. Of course, another mirror is required, but by standing with the back to a looking glass on wall or bureau the shaver can see the back of his neck by looking at the reflection in the glass in front of him. This same mirror can be used for ordinary shaving purposes by hanging it up on door or wall, folded in flat against the frame.

Microphone Locates Water. By means of a modification of the microphone a French inventor has been enabled to find springs of water as far as 50 feet under the surface of the ground, and it is supposed that this instrument will be of great value to miners, prospectors and persons similarly employed, as well as a means of locating miners who may be entombed by accident. A tube is thrust into the ground for a few feet and the improved microphone is attached to the upper end and the noise of flowing or dripping water is clearly heard. After this it is a simple matter to locate the exact location of the water. The apparatus has been tried out and its success demonstrated.

Ostrich Farm Growing. The Hagenbeck ostrich farm at Stellingen, near Hamburg, was founded three years ago, and is growing rapidly in importance as well as size. It was Mr. Hagenbeck's theory that the ostrich, although a native of tropical or hot countries, would thrive in colder localities, and as a result be stronger in health and grow a heavier coat of feathers.

SWEATER TO SUPPLANT COATS IN U. S. ARMY.

Washington, D. C.—Coats will no longer form part of the uniform of United States troops in the field. It is announced. The war department has decided that a light sweater will be used as comfortable and a more practical garment than the present service coat.

The sweater will also be used to supplant the blanket as a sleeping garment.

Use Brass Rings. In making a shoe bag or laundry bag that is to hang flat against the door, use brass rings instead of loops for slipping over the nails. They will not pull out as the loops may.

Half a dozen of the advantages claimed for the new Sayer System of Cooking in Paper Bags, briefly put into—

1. It makes every dish more savory and nutritious.
2. It is economical, the food weighs practically the same when drawn from, as when put in, the oven.
3. It is labor-saving—no cleaning of pots or pans.
4. It is hygienic—no germ-haunted cooking utensils.
5. No smothering of cooking—the bag is sealed with a common metal clip, such as is used by business men in offices.
6. It saves fuel, and, therefore, money.

ANNUAL INDUSTRIAL SHOW IS PROPOSED

MANUFACTURERS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PLAN TO GIVE EXHIBITION EVERY YEAR.

SPACE ALREADY TAKEN

Secretary Lane States Space Has Already Been Asked for Next Show—Popularity of Exhibition Continues.

January manufacturers and members of the Industrial and Commercial club are enthusiastic over the plan to make the Manufacturers' Exhibition an annual event. In fact, plans have already been proposed for next year and several firms have spoken for space in the rink building.

Secretary F. L. Lane stated today that he knew of no better way of boosting Janesville and the products of her factories than such a show as is being held this week, and its popularity and value is specifically demonstrated in the inquiries of outside concerns regarding the possibility of securing space for exhibits.

In spite of the unfavorable weather conditions of yesterday the crowds continued to be attracted, some for the first time, and others for their second, third or fourth visit. Every booth drew its share of attention and people are eager to learn about the various products as numerous questions are answered by the men in charge of the different exhibits.

Harry McDaniel has a novel showing to advertise the Harley-Davidson motorcycle for which he is agent in this section. An old style bicycle with the large front wheel is labeled "patent," and under it is an up-to-date foot-power machine bearing the inscription, "harley-davidson" while the 1912 model Harley-Davidson machine is marked "future." Mr. McDaniel declared that it was surprising how many people stopped to inquire about the new machine and how interested most of the inquirers were regarding the mechanism. Not a few sales and prospects were secured by this exhibit.

The same condition is true with the other firms represented at the show as most of the products meet with an active demand in this section as well as in the broader field outside of the county and state. Farmers are especially attracted by the display of farm machinery, windmills, law tools, electric lighting plant, woven wire, buggies and carriages, which are all articles which meet with their constant demand. The improved planter of the Janesville Machine company is continually the center of a group of interested onlookers.

One exhibition which is most interesting and complete is that of the Janesville public schools. All sorts of artistic and practical work accomplished by the students in the various grades and in the high school are displayed. Hand carving, drawings, water colors, fancy paper articles, needle work, preserves from the domestic science department, and various articles made in the manual training department, are among the things which attract attention.

Notes of the Show. School children will enjoy the exhibits tomorrow afternoon but during the other days they are not allowed in the building unless accompanied by their parents.

There will be a special band concert by the Flower City band on Saturday afternoon. The program will be announced later.

The voting contest is a feature which is thoroughly enjoyed. The variety of figures that people are heard to remark as their guesses vary widely from several thousand up to millions. Ballots may be obtained at the Gazette booth.

Popular Janesville young ladies are busily engaged selecting Twilight club prizes in the J. Stern booth. Fifty per cent of the proceeds go to the relief fund for cyclone sufferers.

Griddle-cakes hot from the gas range were baked at the booth of the New Gas Light company last evening.

Crisp, brown toast was made by electricity at the booth of the Janesville Electric company.

The printer in charge of the platoon jobber at the Gazette booth attracts considerable attention. He has a box of type and cards with various inscriptions are printed and handed to the visitors.

Mr. Lantz, traveling salesman for the John C. Nichols Harness company, is responsible for the Master Brand trade mark burnt on a large piece of leather.

Hundreds of housewives admire the modern electric kitchen exhibit at the Caloric booth.

The band concerts are keenly appreciated. The program tonight will be:

- 1—Show Folks' March.
- 2—Spanish Wedding Serenade.
- 3—Popular Medley.
- 4—Lazare, Waltz.
- 5—Fun on the Levee.
- 6—Bohemian Girl, Overture.
- 7—The Palm.
- 8—Every Little Movement.
- 9—Steamboat Bill, March.

ORPHEUM THEATRE REOPENS UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

To Be Devoted to High Class Motion Pictures Only.

Saturday the Orpheum Theatre will be reopened. This little theatre has been thoroughly renovated and remodeled and will be devoted to the showing of high class moving pictures exclusively. The new management aims to show nothing but the best of motion pictures and illustrated times.

From the Western Times. Pictures shown at the Majestic Theatre under B. F. Haskins' management were synonymous of all that was best in the motion picture line. Mr. Haskins has taken over the Orpheum here and promises the same good service here as was rendered in Watertown.

THANKSGIVING DAY WILL BE OBSERVED BY LOCAL CHURCHES

Public Generally Invited to Take Part in Services Which Will Be Held at Congregational Church.

United Thanksgiving services will be held Thursday, Nov. 30, by the undersigned churches and ministers of Janesville. The service will be held in the First Congregational church and a program of music and speaking will be published next week. The ministers partaking in this truly American national sacred festival wish to invite the attention of the general public to its character. It arose out of the early experiences of the Pilgrim Fathers of the New England settlement and partook largely of their religious and civic ideals, but it has become national in the sentiment of the people and the enactment of congress, and the call of the chief executive. It is in no sense a sectarian or partisan gathering which we desire to hold, but such a meeting as any Christian patriot and public spirited citizen may attend. We invite the friendly and large-hearted sympathy and co-operation of all who live our free national life to help make this Thanksgiving service worthy of our traditions.

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS
ALBERT PAYSON TERNUM
BLACK KETTLE.

Three hundred French soldiers started forth in jubilant spirits from Montreal. They aimed to raid New York and to destroy the Iroquois settlement at Niagara. It was a move whose perfect success might well have proved the opening wedge whereby in time New York would have become a French province.

But between Canada and the settled portions of New York stretched lands of the "Six Nations," which formed the fierce Iroquois confederacy. And it was ostensibly against the Iroquois that this expedition was sent. The "Six Nations" formed a real barrier between New York and France's greed.

So sudden was the French invasion that there was no time to mass a force of Iroquois strong enough to resist them. But an Onondaga chief of the "Six Nations," known and dreaded by the French as "Chandlere Noto" ("Black Kettle"), summoned eighty of his braves and hastened to meet the invaders. He was too wily a general to oppose his eighty men in open field against a force nearly four times as large as their own. He was prepared to lose his own life and to sacrifice the lives of his followers. But for those lives he was resolved to get as high a price as possible. So, instead of attacking the French in "stand up" battle, he met them in a long running fight through the wilderness; using every rock and tree as a barrier, and firing eternally at his enemies from behind such cover.

A famous "Running Fight." Such a fight, against a vastly superior force, could have but one final result. Each Indian saw more than one of his foes, and almost all to pieces the French expedition. Yet Black Kettle's company was utterly wiped out. To pay for the loss of his braves, Black Kettle the next year raided western Canada and laid waste many miles of French settlements. He had paid his debt and had, moreover, given the French a wholesome idea of the dangers of invading New York.

In 1691 Black Kettle was one of the prime movers in an Iroquois plot to destroy the Canadian trading posts and villages near Montreal. His plans were betrayed to the French by an Indian woman and the expedition ended in defeat.

To punish this attack the French swept down upon hunting parties of the Iroquois who were encamped around the St. Lawrence river. Black Kettle was quite ready to enter into such a game of retaliation. He knew that large bands of friendly Indians traded in furs with the French at Montreal and that such bands went to and from Montreal guarded by French troops. By handling these traders he would not only be showing Indians the danger of friendship with the French, but would also be wounding the latter in a vulnerable spot—the bank account—by breaking up their fur trade.

So he fell upon all such trading parties; killing both the friendly Indians and their French guards, and seizing the precious furs they carried. So successful was Black Kettle at this style of warfare that he was emboldened to plan a home-thrust against his French foes. The scheme was audacious—almost insanely so. Yet in its very audacity lay its chance of success.

Collecting the pick of his warriors and making long, secret marches, Black Kettle, on July 15, boldly attacked the city of Montreal. Through the streets he rushed at the head of his braves; slaying, plundering, taking prisoners. Then, before the French could fly to arms, he was gone again and well on his homeward way, laden with booty and captives.

The Last Great Exploit. But thus hampered, Black Kettle's victorious band could not make their usual swift progress. A rescue party was hastily formed at Montreal and gave chase. In order to escape to his own land with a whole skin, Black Kettle was obliged to release his prisoners. That same year, however, he atoned to his wounded self-respect for the loss by attacking a marching regiment of Frenchmen and killing their leader, the Sieur de Lusignan.

But this was the last of Black Kettle's noted exploits. In 1697 he made peace with the French. While he was on a hunting trip near Catteraugus, during the progress of the peace negotiations, he was ambushed and murdered by several of France's Algonquin allies. His slayers either did not know the war between Black Kettle and the French was at an end, or they wantonly disregarded the peace treaty.

There were two Black Kettles in Indian history, and their respective deeds are sometimes confused. The other bearer of the odd name was a war chief of the Cheyennes whom Gen. Sheridan's troops killed in battle in 1868.

CHIROPRACTIC

Section of Spine showing position of bones in correct and displaced positions.

Section of Spine showing nerves emerging from cord thru bony openings.

Does a Section of Your Spine Look Like This?

No. 8 shows a nerve emerging from the cord full size and carrying its full supply of nerve force. The organ to which it goes is healthy.

No. 7 shows a pinched nerve emerging from the spinal cord where there is a subluxation (a displacement of vertebrae). It cannot carry its full supply of nerve force, therefore, the organ to which it goes is diseased and you are sick. If this pinched nerve leads to the stomach you have indigestion and colic. If it leads to the lungs you have attacks of pneumonia, bronchitis, catarrh, etc.

Why not have the pressure relieved from those pinched nerves and be well? The Chiropractor adjusts the subluxation, thus relieves the pressure and nature builds up the diseased parts. Health is the result.

CHARACTER DOLL IS LATEST

Each Type is Made After the Portrait or Photograph of a Real Child.

Perhaps the most interesting feat of the modern doll maker is the fact that each type is made after the portrait or photograph of a real child, and is often a copy of a living model. One traces the incentive to realism in doll manufacture to a lovely, elderly lady in Munich. She is an artist, and one with a deep love for childhood. It seemed to her that when one considered all the passion of love which a doll inspires in the breast of its owner, that little girl ought to have a pet that looked more human than dolls have been wont to look. With this idea she developed, in plaster, dolls that were exact imitations of the various peasant folk who came to Munich from Bavaria and other provinces of a Sunday. The holiday attire of each native village was represented. These delightful little figures of peasant life attracted the attention of the Empress of Germany three years ago—at the time when they first appeared—and she made Christmas presents of them to children of the royal household. She was delighted with the human-looking manikins, and this fact did not take long to spread throughout the Empire and reach the ears of Americans. Now the artist in Munich has several artist assistants to aid her in developing new peasant faces and types, and factories eagerly await models from her studio to dress according to her designs.—Harper's Bazar.

SOME NOVEL FRENCH CANES

Handles of Walking Sticks are Receptacles for Coins, Matches and Other Things.

The ingenuity of the Frenchman has not been confined to the making of weapons out of apparently harmless canes. In fact there is quite a variety of uses which the cane is made to serve.

One of the canes is fitted with a coin box and a match box, these being contained in the head, which is provided with a carefully concealed lid. The coin box is arranged to permit of depositing and easily removing the coin by a slight pressure of the thumb, thus obviating the necessity of fishing for coins in the pocket.

Another cane handle contains a complete outfit of the game known as Potts Chevaux. When the lid is open betting can begin and the horse crossing the wire first wins the stakes. One of the latest Parisian novelties consists in a ladies' parasol wheel which can be used for gambling at any place or moment.

These handles have become very popular. They are of the workmanship and generally of gold or silver.

One handle contains almost everything that one would be likely to need. A long sheet of paper is wound around the rod, from which pieces may be torn off for taking notes. When the lid is opened penknife, pencil, nail file, combs and looking glass are disclosed. These objects are small, but large enough for practical use.—Scientific American.

How the Dirt "Flaw" at Suez. Many of the workers on the Suez canal were girls, digging up the sand with their bare fingers, scooping it into the hollows of their hands, throwing it into a rush basket each had woven for herself, lifting the baskets to their heads and carrying the load of twenty to thirty pounds one hundred feet up the bank and dumping it.—Engineering Magazine.

The Rugs for SERVICE Kysmak & Burma.

You do not, of course, buy a rug merely because it is serviceable, any more than you do because it is merely pretty to look at.

THE "KYSMAK" AND "BURMA"

Rugs are not only more serviceable than most and more attractive, but they have no seams to wear threadbare like many other rugs.

They are Absolutely Seamless

They are unlike most other rugs, because they can be used EITHER SIDE and the fact that this feature is appreciated is shown by the wonderful demand we are having for them.

We have a special showing of real mission designs in the "Kysmak" and "Burma" rugs for dens, libraries and dining rooms, as well as for every other room. You should certainly see the "Kysmak" and "Burma" for full value in rugs.

MRS. JOHN QUINN

JOHN McDONALD

WARREN THORPE

JOHN QUINN

THRICE WIDOWED, HELD TO EXPLAIN DEATHS OF HUSBANDS.

Chicago, Ill.—Following so closely on the heels of the Vermilya poisoning case, and so nearly parallel to it in method and motive the arrest of Mrs. John Quinn is today the chief topic of comment in Chicago and vicinity. Mrs. Quinn is now incarcerated in the Hyde Park station accused of murdering her third husband, John Quinn, who was found dead in bed at his home, 11050 South Michigan avenue with a bullet hole through his heart. Mrs. Quinn's second husband, Warren Thorpe, was shot dead while sitting in a chair at his home in Jackson, Michigan, in 1901.

Quinn she stated she had only one husband and that his name was John McDonald. McDonald also died mysteriously at Jackson, Michigan, under circumstances indicating poison. It developed at the coroner's inquest through the testimony of Charles E. Thorpe that Mrs. Quinn married his father, Warren Thorpe, just 17 days after McDonald's death.

The case finds its similarity to the Vermilya case in that at least two of the deaths Mrs. Quinn is alleged to have received financial benefit therefrom. $2,000 is said to have been her share of the estate of her second husband, Warren Thorpe. Quinn is said to have insurance to the amount of $3,150 in various fraternal organizations.

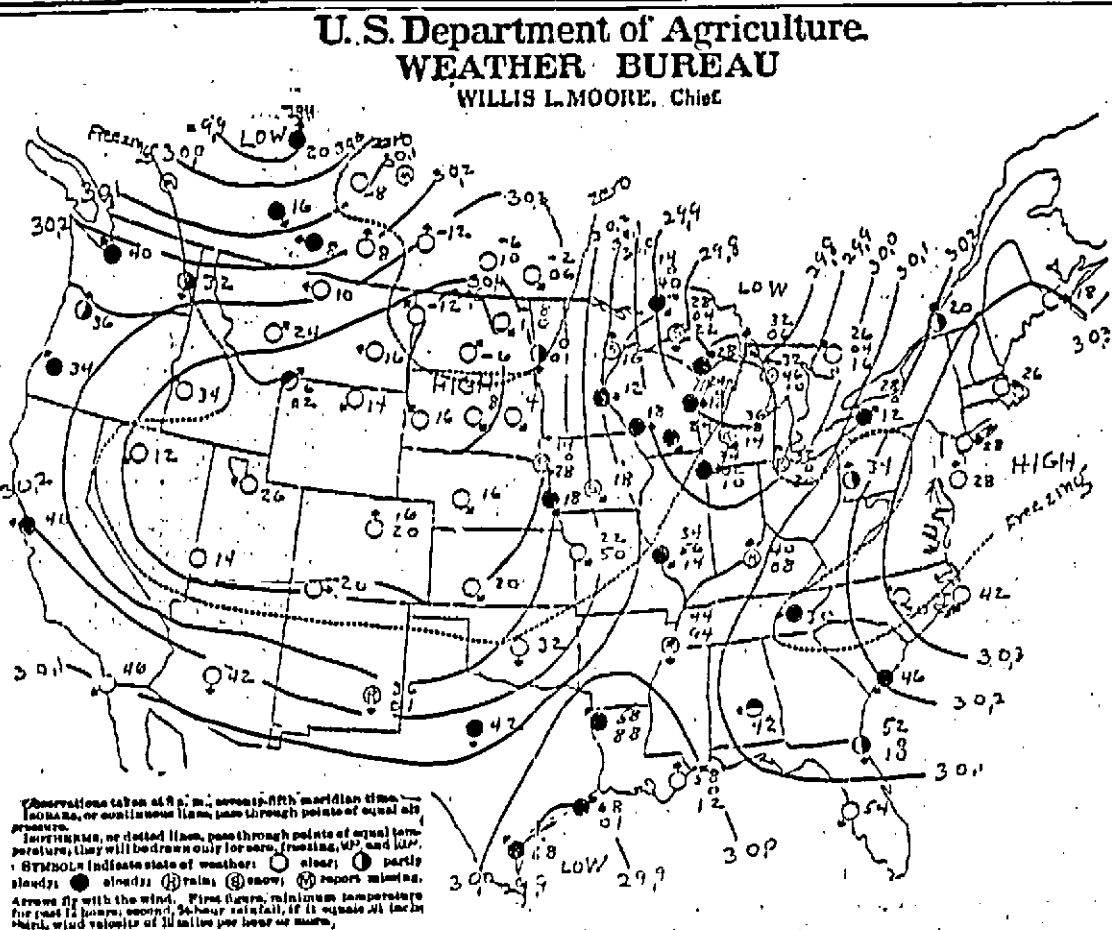

Living With a Poet. Signore Gabriele d'Annunzio having returned to Italy, the visitors at a certain little French resort are deprived of his distinguished company. For two months they could boast of living in the same resort as the famous poet and playwright. Some of them had even the honor of sharing the same hotel—a hotel which appreciated the great master at his full value, and therefore neglected nothing that contributed to his glory. The servants had strict orders to make no noise before noon, and all work was therefore prohibited till midday. The other guests rose and dressed in silence, and then stole noiselessly away to the sea or the forest, where they were requested to remain until the hour of déjeuner. About twelve o'clock Signor d'Annunzio would appear at his window, and as that was the sign that he had ceased to sleep, the normal routine was resumed.

Loyalty is Rewarded. Professor Dyche, state fish and game warden, has appointed Big Bill Brown deputy fish and game warden for Cherokee county. Big Bill will be remembered as the man who wrote a strong letter to Tom Batkin, assistant secretary of state, some months ago indorsing Professor Dyche's story about black bees quitting their native element to catch and swallow jaybirds. Big Bill went the professor one better and not only stated that black bees do catch and swallow jaybirds, but submitted some pretty strong testimony to show that they also prey upon ducks and geese. Big Bill received his reward for his loyalty to the professor, and his commission was written without any frills, naming him simply as Big Bill Brown.—Kansas City Journal.

Greatest Gold Producer. The Witwatersrand district of South Africa is the greatest gold producing center of the world.

Air Mile. The "air mile" is a unit of measurement that has come into use with the advancement of aviation. We had the land mile and the sea mile, which is approximately one-seventh longer than the land mile of America. The nautical mile is often incorrectly called a knot, but a knot is a measure of both distance and time. It is correct to say that a vessel makes ten knots, but to say that she makes ten knots an hour is tautology. The air mile is measured differently from the land mile and the sea mile. It is a land mile minus the retardation of an adverse wind or plus the acceleration of a favoring wind. Thus an aviator could cover many air miles while hovering over a given point on the earth's surface.—Brown's Magazine.

Some Plumbing. An alternating current of electricity plunges back and forth through the filament in an incandescent lamp 120 times a second.

A Mission. A nightseeing visitor recently went aboard a tramp steamer in San Francisco harbor, says the Argonaut. Noting that the deck hands were Chinese, she approached one of them and said: "You no speak English?" The Chinaman looked bored and answered nothing. The woman continued: "Me go your country soon. Me learn speak Chinese, teach little Chinese boy and girl. You savvy, missionary?" The Chinaman looked at her a minute and answered: "Madam, if you are not more successful in mastering our language than you appear to have been with your own, I fear that your attempt to enlighten our race will prove anything but satisfactory. Good afternoon." The Chinaman sought the other side of the ship and the woman, dressing a Yale graduate who was working his passage back to China.

Drawback to Cheap Coal. Coal is only 25 cents a ton in China, but unfortunately that is a little too far to carry the coal scuttle when the furnace gets low.

A Neglected Education. "I don't understand Hinkins." "Why not?" "Every time I tell one of my stories he says, 'Pass the hemlock!'"

ALLAN T. BAUN
New President of Pacific Coast League.

president was to leave for the east to attend the informal meeting of Class A, representatives and the national commission held on Nov. 10th. President Baun has been favorably known in coast league baseball circles for a number of years and his election meets with popular approval.

The Obelisk. The obelisk in Central park, New York, is not the only one of the celebrated monoliths to be found outside of Egypt. They are to be found in Rome, Paris and London. While ancient enough, the obelisk does not belong to the more ancient period of Egyptian history. The first of which we have any record was made at the order of Rameses II., about B. C. 1332. Altogether some forty-two of them are known, some badly broken. It is now supposed by the best authorities on Egyptology that the obelisk was the symbol of the Supreme God. The wisest of the Egyptians were, it seems, monotheists, and the single shaft was designed to represent the one only true God.

Perfection a Rarity. Some men are criticised because they wear side whiskers, yet no man on earth is within a hundred miles of being perfect.

"ALABAMA" PLEASES EXCELLENT HOUSE

Ethel May Still Puzzling Audiences and Plays Prove Attractive. Ethel May, the mystery girl at the Myers Theatre still continues to draw large audiences increasing every night and people are ordering seats in advance for the rest of the week. Her wonderful and mysterious work puzzles you more and more every time you see it. She has answered a great many questions in Janesville since the company opened here Monday night and in every instance so far the answers have been absolutely correct. She calls the name tells where you are sitting and how you are dressed. On Friday afternoon Miss May gives a special matinee for ladies only, this means that after the regular matinee performance is over all the gentlemen in the house audience, the stage hands, the male members of the company, the ushers; if fact every man in the house is dismissed and Miss May will demonstrate to ladies only. Miss May is creating quite a sensation among the social circles of the city as well as in the business centres. The play last night was "Alabama" a southern play as indicated by the name, and despite the inclement weather the house was well filled and the audience all seemed to enjoy the performance. Tonight they offer "The Divorce Question," a very high class society comedy drama, the funniest play ever presented on the local stage, and yet it teaches one of the finest moral lessons that can be imagined and it no doubt leaves an impression upon the minds of those who see it, that they don't soon forget. Don't fail to ask Ethel May a question.

Human Hair Crop. The human hair crop is a profitable and expensive industry. Five tons of it are annually imported by the merchants of London. The center of the trade is Paris, where 200,000 pounds are harvested annually, with a valuation of $4,000,000.

At Fountains & Elsewhere Ask for "HORLICK'S" The Original and Genuine MALTED MILK The Food-drink for All Ages. At restaurants, hotels, and fountains. Delicious, invigorating and sustaining. Keep it on your sideboard at home. Don't travel without it. A quick lunch prepared in a minute. Take no imitation. Just say "HORLICK'S" Not in Any Milk Trust

EVERY clothier talks quality. We'll admit that most every dealer can give you quality at some price or other. BUT the point that YOU'RE interested in is where to get quality clothes at the price YOU want to pay.

RIGHT there is where we have a great argument in favor of our store. As a single evidence of the fact that we offer you the advantage of exclusive merchandise, we feature Kuppenheimer clothes. If better clothes could be made---Kuppenheimer would make them---and if better could be sold, we would sell them.

As the season of holidays draws near, the idea of clothes is uppermost in many a mind. All the young fellows, and the old ones too, like to put up their best front just about this time. We would just like to show you all of the good things in the way of suits that we have. The dressiest designs and shades in all wool fabrics are here. Opal blues, paprika browns, Ascot greys and sand tans---you know what they are. Prices $15 to $25 and $8 to $15

WE also want to call your attention to this special overcoat. Pure wool to the last fibre; 46 inches long, with velvet collar and trimmed in the body with a rich grade of Venetian, it is a splendid garment. One of the features of the coat is the SATIN SLEEVES, that are guaranteed to wear for two seasons. To appreciate the value for the price you must see this coat. Price $12

ANOTHER "out of the ordinary" overcoat value is our men's convertible collar overcoat. This line comes in five of the niftiest styles of the season in all-wool overcoating materials. They are turned out at the famous Windsor Mills and you know what that means. They have style, quality and weight, a combination that is hard to beat. They have exceptional wearing qualities; 51 inches long, sizes from 34 to 42. Price . . . $10

STATE POTATO CROP
WORTH TEN MILLION

Commercial Value of Tuber in Wisconsin Set Forth in Bulletin by Horticultural Department.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 23.—The value of the potato crop in Wisconsin will approximate $10,000,000, according to James G. Millward, of the horticultural department of the University of Wisconsin. In a bulletin on "Commercial Potato Growing in Wisconsin," now in press, he says that for many years Wisconsin has ranked as a leading commercial potato state in acreage and population, and that on an average during the past ten years about 250,000 acres have been under development commercially. He said it is significant that this development has been largely due to the natural soil and climate adaptations, and that these natural soil and commercial advantages are far from being exhausted. He says that commercial conditions in regard to the potato industry now demand attention to progressive methods which have been developed in the past. In this relation, attention is urged, especially to the possibilities of community potato growing as a means of promoting uniform standard ear shipments.

During the past ten years, says Mr. Millward, the annual yield in Wisconsin has fluctuated between 10,000,000 and 23,000,000 bushels. Three counties in the central part of the state rank with the thirteen leading counties of the United States.

"There has been a revival of interest in some of the phases of potato growing in the states where the industry is commercially important," says Mr. Millward. Investments have been made recently which will mean a rapid extension of potato growing. He cited recent investments in many potato-growing sections toward co-operative organization. Growers in a local and county association are urged upon one or two varieties in accordance with commercial standards. Careful seed selection is urged according to type and freedom from disease, and it is advised that careful attention should be given to sorting and grading in the field and at loading stations.

FISH MARKETS FOR TOMORROW HIGHER

Potatoes Take Their Usual Morning Exercise and Raise Five Cents—Fresh Eggs Are Minus Quantity.

Potatoes seem bound to make an altitude record even if the consumers have to starve. They went up again today five cents above yesterday's lowest, selling now at 85¢ to 90¢ a bushel. Fresh eggs are worth at least a dollar a dozen and it is practically impossible to find the requisite twelve. Storage eggs are controlling the market at 26¢ to 30¢.

Today's fish market is much the same as last week's with the exception of a few slight raises and together with the other markets are printed below.

Vegetables.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

Living Fully or in Patches.

H G. Wells, the novelist, in one of his books, makes a character remark, "We live life in patches. We eat. We sleep. We take exercise. We do this and we do that, just to keep our physical machinery going. And we call it living."

Evidently, the speaker is much disgusted with the accepted notion of life. And, if we stop to think of it, living life on such a plane as this, does, for a being of intelligence and fine sensibilities, seem hardly worth while. Yet, when we get down to the real facts of the case, a good many of us do live in this way. We throw in a little work or a little play, which, however, is all for our own advantage or aggrandizement, and the days pass, and the weeks pass, and the years pass, and we eat and sleep and exercise and make life a patchwork of such things, just as the writer says.

It is a very material plane to live on. But many of us live on it and never glance beyond. We look about and see every one else living this way, and so we slip into the routine; and, though sometimes we wonder if the game is worth the candle, still we keep in step with the procession.

But let's consider a moment if we need to live in patches, if life cannot yield us something more than this sort of existence? What is the real life? These material things, we know will pass away. They belong to the temporal and destructible. But are there not some things that are indestructible, some things which, though we cannot see them with our eyes, or touch them with our fingers, still are real and cannot be destroyed? And if there are such, and we live in them, will we not then live a real life, a life that is indestructible and a life that is worth while?

And are there not such realities in the form of the things of the spirit—love, kindness, gentleness, tenderness, honor, truth? We cannot place our hand on some substantial material object and say this is love, or honor or truth. But nevertheless, we know these things exist, that they are real. And if all the material things were swept away, if food and houses and clothing, even if the world itself were destroyed, still the idea of love, of good, of truth, would remain untouched, unchanged, as real and vital as it ever was.

If we want to live the real life then, do we not want to live in these things, to get into an atmosphere where these reign, to bring them into our life and experience as the predominant influence, rather than food and sleep and exercise. We may go through these material processes of living, but we can go through them almost mechanically. Our body can perform this function on this lower plane, so to speak, of its own volition. But our real self, our higher self, the spirit that is the reality within us, can concern itself with the realities of life, can live in this atmosphere of what is true and real and indestructible. And if we do this, we will not have that sensation of living in patches, that feeling that it is worth while to exist to eat and sleep and take exercise, and go through such a belittling grind. Might it not make life a more beautiful and purposeful thing for some of us, if we would think upon this a bit.

HOLIDAY CANDIES.

On of the most delicious candies and very cheap to make is:

Peanut Candy.—Take a pound of brown sugar and add six ounces of butter (12 level tablespoonfuls) and place over the heat, when melted, watch carefully stirring to keep it from scorching, let it boil ten minutes, not too rapidly, and then add a quart of peanuts that have been shelled and rolled until coarsely broken. Turn into a buttered pan and when cool mark in squares and cut. Wrap in waxed paper.

The foundation for French candies is another simple process and if the directions are followed will be successful.

To a pound of sugar add a cup of water and a fourth of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil without stirring until a little dropped in cold water makes a soft waxy ball when rolled between the thumb and finger. When the syrup is boiling wash down the sides of the pan with a swab dipped in cold water, to prevent the graining of the sugar. When it is tested and found sufficiently boiled pour the syrup out on a buttered slab or large platter to cool. When cool enough to bear the finger commence to stir with a wooden spoon until the mixture is white and creamy. It is now ready to be flavored and molded with nuts or fruit into any desired form.

Maple Sugar Candy.—Break in pieces a pound of maple sugar, put into a saucepan with three-fourths of a cup of cream and a fourth of a cup of water. Boil together until a soft ball is formed when a little is dropped in cold water. Remove from the heat and beat until creamy, adding two-thirds of a cup of broken walnut meats. Cool and mark in squares.

Velvet Molasses Candy.—Take a cup of molasses, three cups of sugar, a cup of boiling water and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, cook all together, at the first boil add a half teaspoonful of cream of tartar, when it is brittle when tried in cold water, it is ready to pour into buttered pans. When nearly cooled add a half cup of butter and a fourth of a teaspoonful of soda.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

WHY NEW YORK IS NOT A DUTCH CITY.

By A. W. MACY.
In 1613 Samuel Argall, captain of a small armed English vessel, sailed up the coast of Maine, ostensibly to protect the English fishermen, but in reality to destroy such French colonies as he might find up and down the coast. He attended to his business, burning and pillaging several French settlements. On his way back, by way of variety, he descended on the Dutch traders on Manhattan Island, destroyed many of their huts, and compelled them to acknowledge the sovereignty of England. This trip of the savage old captain resulted in confining the French settlements to the St. Lawrence, subjugating the Dutch and leaving a clear field to the English. Had it not been for this expedition, New York might today be a Dutch city—possibly.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN, Food Specialist.

MILK MONODIET IS SOMETIMES INJURIOUS.

Recently I have learned of a case in which the milk diet was taken in a sanitarium devoted to that purpose, and caused serious results, the patient requiring several months to regain lost ground. No one system of feeding or of treatment in general applies to all cases. The milk diet, like other monodiets, often proves beneficial, but is sometimes injurious—and it is to be understood that gain in weight is not a certain indication of improvement, even if the increased weight is held after the special diet is discontinued, as Dr. Pottenger points out, especially in relation to consumption. In "Physiologic Therapeutics" for July—emphasizing an objection I have often urged against forced feeding in sickness.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Higher Kitchen Sinks Gave Backs. Best Kinds and Their Care.

By Alice E. Whitaker.
Many new and helpful ideas about the home were originally worked out at the cooking schools because the teacher has the time for experiment that the busy housewife has not at her command. One of the most practical things first put into use by the cooking teacher is the higher sink and now the progressive housekeeper need not break her back over a low kitchen sink or laundry tub.

The sink which is a delight to the kitchen worker is of iron enameled white and with rounded corners. The back and draining board are of the same material as the sink and the whole is made of one piece. Such a sink can be kept spotlessly clean but the ordinary soap stone sink is not so sanitary for it has hiding seams and the surface is not always entirely smooth. Now and then a wooden sink is found, where much fine china is washed, as a safe guard against breakage but it must be constantly scalded and rinsed in soda solution.

Unpainted but smooth iron sinks are found in older houses and their chief fault lies in the color that does not reveal dirt as easily as the white enamel. They are commendable because they have round corners but on the other hand they have backs and draining boards of wood. The foul condition disclosed when the old wood work is taken away from about a sink is almost past belief unless one has gone through the experience of having such repairs made. The wood is always water soaked and contaminated and forms a culture bed for dangerous bacteria.

A kitchen sink cupboard is rarely seen in these days of agitation for better house sanitation. In many old homes the closed cupboard has been taken away and light and air let in the space where formerly black iron pots were stored. These utensils are not often used now and the cupboard is likely to become a hiding place for dirty dishes and odds and ends that ought to be discarded. The space opened by the removal of the cupboard and the pipes are by no means unsightly when painted.

The perforated cover to the waste pipe in the new sink is not removable but in the old sink this cover should never be lifted to let accumulations pass down easily to the danger of filling up the trap of the pipe. Any sort of soap or cleaning powder that is gritty should not be used in an enameled sink which must be treated like a fine bath tub. For cleansing both sink and pipes use hot solution of soda in the proportion of one-quarter cup of two rounding table-spoons to four cups of boiling water. This is sufficient for one cleansing and should be repeated twice a week.

The need of keeping garbage out of the sink is reiterated none too often. A white enameled sink is less likely than any other to become a dumping place for tea and coffee grounds, salad leaves, purings and left-overs from the table plates. Yet many a plumber's bill comes from carelessness of this sort that inevitably ends in obstructing the trap in the drain pipe. One of the kitchen conveniences worth having is a small garbage can holding two quarts and with a hinged lid that lifts in place every time the can is used.

A large proportion of china breakage may be laid directly to the faucets. These are often placed too low over the sink with the idea of preventing the water from splashing over the floor which it might do if they were placed too high. The latest and most satisfactory place for the hot and cold water faucets is at the end of the sink; this is just as convenient for drawing water as the old position and it saves hitting dishes against the metal as they are put in and out of the dish pan.

A white enamel dish pan is the best and dish towels unless kept scrupulously clean are better not used at all and the dishes left to dry in a wire drainer after being well rinsed with scalding water and with a piece of cheese cloth over. The average dish towel is not sanitary and the alleged neatness of any woman who uses a "dish rag" is under suspicion.

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

THE older I grow, the more I am surprised and impressed by finding how wonderfully things straighten out if only you give them time.

We were coming home from a long walk the other day and I was very tired. At a turn in the road, there stretched before us a long, steep hill. The sight of it appalled me. "I am so tired," I fretted. "How can I ever climb that hill?"

"Wait," said my companion, "don't look at it now, but wait until you are really climbing it—then see how much less of a hill it is than it looks now."

He was right. Half way up the hill I paused and looked behind me—I could hardly see that there was any slope at all.

And over and over again, I've found that the hills of life are just the same. Over and over again, life has taught me that, if I will not try to climb the hill before I get to it, if I will not strive to dispose of the difficult problem, the unpleasant complication, the intricate task before I can do anything other than face about it, I will find my path comparatively even and simple.

You know how very differently things seem in the middle of the night from what they do in the morning. You wake up in the night, think of your trouble, and it seems quite big enough to engulf all your future happiness.

When you are sure that there is no possible way in which things can turn out happily.

Then you finally fret yourself to sleep, and when you wake up in the morning you think about that same worry and how very tiny and foolish it looks. You are sure there isn't one chance in a thousand but that it will come out happily and you wonder how you should have fretted about it.

Well, now it seems to me that every life must have middle of the night moods when we get a very disproportionate idea of our troubles. That's true for all of us.

But wise people—people who really learn something as they go along—never let themselves forget that the middle of the night mood does not things disproportionately and always manage to remember that pretty soon morning will come, when they will see things in a different light.

Truly, it's wonderful how things will straighten out if you give them time, how gentle the slope will seem when you are actually climbing it, and how beautifully simple the night's puzzle will seem in the morning.

Remember—"We are never without a pilot. When we know not how to steer and dare not hold a sail we can always drift; the current knows the way though we do not."—Emerson.

CHILD'S ELABORATE HAT.

New York City. Millinery early engages the attention of the little maid, these days and her desire to be stylish like the grown ups is met with many tempting offerings.

Nothing in this line which I have seen lately surpasses the hat here illustrated, which adorned the blonde curls of a dainty miss of eight or ten for a stroll with her governess.

She wore a cloak of black velvet with a collar of Irish lace to which costume the hat seemed an appropriate climax. The brim was of black velvet deeply mushroomed and cut away in points on the upper side to show an arrangement of white all over lace laid upon gold tulle which extended upward covering the rather high round crown.

All about the hat was a wreath of small ostrich-tips in white while at one side appeared a dull pink rosette and a blue and gold Marguerite with green satin leaves touched with gold. This was a really pretentious creation for one so young and yet so quiet and harmonious in color as not to seem out of keeping with the simplicity of childhood.

Burbank Spoiled a Good Game.

Pushing through the blackberry patch on the hill, a thousand prickly hands were stretched out to hold you back. At every step a wiry bramble wound itself around your ankle or grappled your elbow. Brute force couldn't extricate you. A sort of physical diplomacy, an adroit turning and twisting, the same kind of athletic skill that is required of a half-back on a run in a broken field—that was the game you had to play in order to beat Nature's protective strategy. A game it really was, with the popping, purple berries as the prize. And now Luther Burbank has gone and spoiled it. "After ten years of work," he says, "I have produced a thornless blackberry."

CONVALESCENTS

Those Recovering from Any Severe Illness

After a long wasting illness, convalescents require nourishing food that will not overtax the digestive functions—and in the way of a strength-restoring and vitality-making tonic, we know of nothing that equals Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil).

Vinol creates an appetite, re-establishes good digestion and helps the daily food to make rich blood, form flesh, strong muscles and impart new life and vitality to every organ in the body. We ask those who need a strength and flesh-building tonic restorative to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, with the understanding that if it does not help them we will refund their money without question.

SMITH DRUG CO., Jansville, Wis.

THEY INJURE CHILDREN, Catholics and Pills and Harsh Phys. ics May Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given. Ordinary pills, cathartics, and purgatives are too apt to do more harm than good. They sometimes cause griping, nausea, and distressing after-effects, and may actually injure the health, thus establishing a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall's Orderlies as a safe and dependable remedy for constipation and associated bowel disorders. We have seen such faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy; are particularly prompt, and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a restorative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies not only relieve constipation, but help to remove the cause of it. They also frequently overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really, in our opinion, no similar medicine so good as Rexall Orderlies for the purpose to which it is directed, especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form and in two sizes of packages: 12 tablets, 10c., 36 tablets, 25c., and 80 tablets, 50c. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Orderlies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee, St., Jansville, Wis.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy Ever Used

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply for 50c. Money Refunded if It Fails.

If some one in your family has an obstinate, deep-seated cough—even whooping cough—buy a 50-cent bottle of Pinex and watch that cough vanish. If it fails, money back promptly, and without argument.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with household sugar syrup, makes a full pint—a family supply—of the most effective cough remedy that money can buy, at a saving of 32. Gives instant relief and will usually wipe out a bad cough in 24 hours or less. Easily prepared in five minutes—directions in package.

Pinex Cough Syrup has a pleasant taste—children take it willingly. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both good features. Splendid for croup, hoarseness, throat tickle, incipient lung troubles, and a prompt, successful remedy for whooping cough.

Pinex is a careful and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, and is rich in quinine and other elements which are so healing to the membranes. Simply mix it with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is printed on each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

FERTY, HOPKINS, Prop., 37 West Jones Street, New York.

Thought for Today
by MRS. ROBERT M. LAPOLETTE.

THE NEW STYLES.

A ONE-PIECE high waisted gown, scant skirt, buttoning straight down the side or front, or a skirt with not a bit of waste material, yet wide enough to take a long step, short enough to escape the dust of the street, worn with separate kimono waist—no binding shoulder seam, no high collar, sleeves short enough to give free use of the arm, short or long coat, also without superfluous yards of cloth; shoes with flexible soles, yet thick enough to protect the feet, heels white and high enough to carry the foot level; but soft felt or beaver with a graceful turn, touch of ribbon or flower or feather; it is possible for a woman's wardrobe to be made up on these sensible, comfortable, tasteful, becoming lines, and yet also need not bear the odium of being a dress reformer! Indeed she may be quite in style!

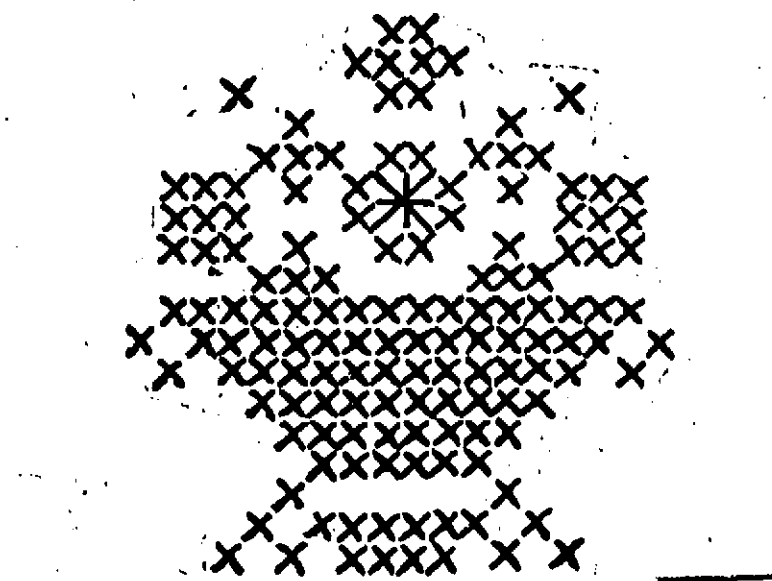

We can hardly hope that this ideal situation is anything more than an accident of fashion. Perhaps the style astrologers are already predicting the return of pleated skirts, long trains, or even hoop skirts, and are reading in the stars that next spring we shall again be wearing grotesque hats, high heels, and flowing wraps. Is there no appeal from this kind of horoscopes which women accept and follow in such abject servitude?

The funny man—or was it a woman—writing up a recent convention of college women, which met for serious purpose, aimed his shafts at their hair, not because they each wore a peck of puffs, but because none of them wore any. He said, they wore their hair very plain and in a proud, resigned way, as if they would have you understand that they knew it was not much to look at but that it was all their own. A day or two later I read that the president of the New-Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs, the wife of a Princeton professor, had urged an audience of women to consider the subject of clothes, and to have the courage to wear their best gowns a second season. These straws may indicate that the thoughtful, educated club woman of America may come to be higher fashion authority than the Parisian man dressmaker.

There was never a better time than now to adopt the new styles and to cling to all that is good in them until something fundamentally better is offered.

"God broke our years to hours and days,
That hour by hour and day by day,
Just going on a little way,
We might be able all along
To keep quite strong."

WARMER-WAVE SOON FOLLOWED BY COLD

Dig Snow Storm Predicted for December 4, and Another for December 10.

Copyrighted 1911, by W. T. Foster. Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent Nov. 23 to 30, warm wave 25 to 29, cool wave 28 to Dec. 2. A week of low average temperatures, with only a small amount of precipitation, will result from above-described disturbance.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about Nov. 29, cross Pacific slope by close of 30, great central valleys 1 to 2, eastern sections 4. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Nov. 29, great central valleys Dec. 1, eastern sections 3. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Dec. 2, great central valleys 4, eastern sections 5.

This will be a cold storm much like the last preceding it, but with a greater amount of precipitation. The wave of rainfall, or snow, will cross Pacific slope about Dec. 1, great central valleys 2, eastern sections 5. Second disturbance of Dec. will reach Pacific coast about 5, cross Pacific slope by close of 6, great central valleys 7 to 9, eastern sections 10. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Dec. 6, great central valleys 7, eastern sections 9. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Dec. 8, great central valleys 10, eastern sections 12. The rain or snow wave will cross Pacific slope about Dec. 8, great central valleys 10, eastern sections 12.

The features of this disturbance will be higher average temperatures, an increase in precipitation and not so stormy as in the preceding disturbance.

First week in December will be unusually cold, second and third week will average warmer than first, a cold period covering five days will drift across continent from 21 to 25. Frequent rains or snows may be expected but a dry spell covering six days will drift across continent Dec. 12 to 16. It will be cold about Christmas in the eastern sections, moderate in the great central valleys and warm on the Pacific slope. There is a good prospect for rains or snows about Christmas on most parts of the continent.

In large parts of northern sections the soil was thoroughly wet before the frosty Nov. 10 to 13, and this is very fortunate, being half the victory won for good crops in 1912.

Scientists know that sun spots fluctuate in periods running from 8 to 14 years, that these periods average about, or a little more than, eleven years, that the earth's magnetic changes with the sun spots also do. It is claimed by English scientists that the sun spots have been noted by eminent authority that the market prices of wheat vary with the sun spots showing that crops are good or bad in accord with the number of spots. It is claimed by English scientists that the famine in India vary with the sun spots. But all the orthodox scientists have failed to find the cause of sunspots and therefore can not make use of the 8-year to 14-year sunspot periods because they cannot forecast them. The authors of these weather bulletins will publish to the world how to forecast sun spots.

I've just come home from Quimper's school, and I am mighty glad I'm back! The way they treat their kid, I saw, brings perspiration to my brow! Don't fall downstairs and dent the floor! Don't float your toy boats in the sink! Don't drink your papa's writing ink! Don't mix with matches, or you'll set the house on fire already! Don't let the parrot have the stove! And thus it goes the whole day long, the same old soul-depressing song! What wonder that the Quimper kid looks broken down and tired and sad? SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By H. L. RANN.
CHRISTOPHER'S SECOND VOYAGE.

When Christopher Columbus, (who it will be recalled by some of our older citizens, discovered America in 1492), arrived home from his first voyage, he was greeted with loud acclamations and several gold-dilled medals.

The American ambassador gave a pink tea in his honor, and he was made keeper of records and made in the royal livery barn and entrusted with the grip of an honored apprentice. It is painful to relate that this adulation caused Christopher to swell so appreciably, that he had to scratch his right ear at a distance of several feet from his head. After lying around for a few months, and taking on considerable flesh, Christopher decided to run over to America again and subdue the natives with kindness and a bull whip. History states that he sailed in seventeen vessels, but gives no further particulars of his whereabouts. He received a warm welcome from the natives, who platted a tasty burning ground and proceeded to fill it with alien citizens. Columbus succumbed to an attack of shingles, due to a lack of building material, and hovered between life and death so long that the first mate omitted a neat obituary poem. But Christopher rallied, introduced a case of Spanish rye into the sea chamber of the head chief, and fell upon the natives while they slept, scattering a large number of vital parts about the premises with a repeating shotgun. After this act of valor, he returned home and was greeted with some new medals. Although he discovered America twice after that, the press of the day seems to have looked upon it as a habit, for he was laid off the first page for having failed in between the liquor column and the daily market report. Columbus died at the age of sixty, leaving an imperishable name and no life insurance to speak of.

Duty Not to Be Delayed.
He was a railroad man and spoke mostly in railroad terms. He was the father of two boys. One day he invited the minister home to dinner. The hungry boys wanted to pitch in—as usual—but the father, in a stern voice, cautioned them to wait. The minister bowed his head to return thanks. The boys, innocent of what was being done, began to eat before the blessing was half said. "Excuse me a minute," said the father, addressing the minister, "until I switch a few coupons."

The "Tawdry Saint."
St. Etheldreda has been unfortunate inasmuch as her memory is perpetuated in the disagreeable adjective "tawdry," and she is sometimes even referred to as the "Tawdry Saint."

In the Isle of Ely, where she died, a fair was formerly held in her honor, at which a peculiar kind of cheap, but showy lace was sold, which as St. Etheldreda's or St. Audrey's lace soon became proverbial, and Tawdry, an easy corruption of the saint's abbreviated name, was used to denote all things more gaudy than valuable.

Stomach Trouble Vanishes After Taking a Little Diapiesin

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Headache and other Distress will go in Five Minutes.

If you find some Diapiesin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or you feel a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a Diapiesin case of Diapiesin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Diapiesin, indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

Danderine

Makes your hair grow long, heavy and luxuriant and we can prove it

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

Hair Becomes Soft, Fluffy, Lustrous and Abundant After a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

Immediately after applying a little Danderine all dandruff will disappear, all itching of the scalp will cease and there will be no more loose or falling hair.

If you wish to double the beauty of your hair in ten minutes surely try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

If you care for beautiful, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knott's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter—A real surprise awaits you.

Clean, Dry Heat

Clean, dry heat, with no smoke or odor and with no flying ashes or soot—that is what you get with a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater.

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient heating device you can find. It is always ready for use. There are no pipes or flues or wires to bother you. You can pick it up and take it wherever extra warmth is wanted.

Every mechanical improvement that experience could suggest was already embodied in the Perfection Heater. This year we have tried to add to its appearance. The dials are finished either in turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel, as you prefer; nickel trimmings; as ornamental as it is indispensable to comfort.

A special automatic device absolutely prevents smoking. All parts easily cleaned. Gallon font; lasts nine hours. Cool handle; clamper top.

Why Buds Are Counterfeited

Wilbur's Buds are the most tempting form in which chocolate has ever been offered—consequently, the most widely imitated. But it isn't their shape that makes them so ravishingly delicious. It's the famous Wilbur flavor and a certain melting smoothness that marks the genuine

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Nov. 23, 1871.

Advices from Mexico state that the revolution which started upon the re-election of Juarez is becoming general and that the president has asked congress to grant him extraordinary powers to enable him to suppress the revolutionary forces and maintain the government. All the principal towns in the interior are threatened with armed bands of guerrillas who are roaming around the country plundering the people in the name of a revolution to reform the government. Self government seems to be an attainment which these people are incapable of.

The river froze across below the Court street bridge this morning. The thermometer was exceedingly low, indicating that two degrees above zero at seven o'clock. As predicted by the signal department, snow is beginning to fall this afternoon.

Owen Spaulding of the town of Tarrytown, was driving over West Milwaukee street yesterday when he was attacked by a fit to which, we believe, he has been subject of late. The horses being without the control of a driver ran away. Crossing the Milwaukee street bridge they collided with a wagon in front of the Myers House where they came to halt. No damage was done besides the breaking of a wagon pole.

Let no one forget the rich entertainment at Apollo Hall tomorrow night. Miss Gink, the violinist, accompanied by Professor Tietz, whose name is always an attraction, will give their best selections. Also a little song by Miss Hattie DeGroot. We are sure, will draw those who can appreciate a good thing in music. Readings and recitations by Dr. St. John, A. O. Wilson, W. King, and Miss Anna King, we are sure cannot fail to please all. The Quintette band from Milwaukee to twelve o'clock.

Several prominent republican journals in different parts of the state have suggested, among others, in connection with the position of speaker in the next assembly, the name of Hon. Alex. Graham, member elect of this city. We approve the suggestion, Scientific Recognition.

Data have been gathered in Germany with reference to the distances at which persons may be recognized by their faces and figures. If one has good eyes, the German claim, one can recognize a person whom he has seen but once before at a greater distance than twenty-five meters (eighty-two feet). If the person is well known to one, one may recognize him at from fifty to one hundred meters, and if it is a member of one's family, even at 150 meters. The whites of the eyes may be seen at from twenty-seven to twenty-eight meters, and the eyes themselves at seventy-two to seventy-three meters. The different parts of the body and the slightest movements are distinguishable at ninety-one meters. The hubs show at 182 meters. At 540 meters a moving man appears only as an indifferent form, and at 720 meters (2,361 feet) the movements of the body are no longer visible.—Scientific American.

Why is it Thus?

"We often wonder," says the Springfield Union, "why anyone should put himself to the trouble and expense of going to the Adirondacks or the Maine woods to be shot in mistake for a deer when it is so much easier and more convenient to pick a few mushrooms in a nearby field and die at home surrounded by one's sorrowing relatives."

Supreme Confidence.

"Mrs. Grayson seems to have the utmost confidence in her husband," "I have often noticed it. I believe she would even eat mushrooms that he had picked."

Moles as Things of Beauty.

With Turkish ladies moles on the face are considered a great beauty, the pretty theory being that love has kissed and left a spot, or that spirits whispering in the ear have left their light touch on the cheek. No Turkish woman is considered perfectly beautiful, in fact, without a mole or two.

The KINGDOM of SLENDER SWORDS

by HALLIE ERMINE RIVES

Copyright, 1910, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

The wavering outline was still before his mind's eye as he trod the quiet road that led to the embassy, entered his wide gate and slowly crossed the silent garden toward his bachelor cottage on the lawn. And there suddenly the vision had seized a vibrant melody and had spoken to him in song. Daunt thrust his cold pipe into his pocket and listened with head thrown back.

It was no brilliant display of technique that held him, for the player was touching simple chords, but these were ringing old melodies that took him far to other scenes and other times. He smiled to himself. How long it had been since he had sung them—not since the old college days! That happy, irresponsible era of senior dignities came back vividly to him, the campus and the singing. For years he had not recollected it all so keenly. He had been glad club solist, pushed forward on all occasions and applauded to the echo. Praise of his singing he had accepted somewhat humbly. Never but once had he touched him deeply, and that had been on commencement afternoon.

He had slipped away from the wavering cheers at the station because he could not bear the farewells and far down one of the campus lanes had come on pretty Mrs. Claybourne sitting on a rustic bench. Again he heard her speak as plainly as if it were yesterday: "Why, if it isn't Mr. Daunt! I wonder how the university can open in the fall without you?" He had sat down beside her as she said: "This very talented young person with me has been disappointed because we could not get tickets for the Glen club concert last night. She wanted to hear you sing."

He had looked up then to see a young girl seated on the leaning trunk of a tulip tree. Her neutral tinted skirt lay against the dark bark. Her face was almost hidden by a spray of the great creamy pink blossoms. Some quality in its delicate loveliness had made him wish to please her, and, sitting there, he had sung the song that was his favorite. Mrs. Claybourne had pulled a big branch of the tulip tree to hand him like a bouquet over the footlights, but the girl's parted lips, her wide deep brown eyes, had thanked him in a better way.

The music, now floating over the garden by such subconscious association, recalled this scene, overlaid, but never forgotten. Hark! A cascade of silver notes, and then an old air that had been revived in his time to become the madness of the music halls and the pet of the pianolas—the one the crowded campus had been wont to demand with loudest voice when his tenor led the "Scenor Singing." It brought back with a rush the familiar faces, the gray eyed dormitories with their slim iron balconies, the throbbing plaint of mandolins and his own voice—

Or all the girls that are so smart
There's none like pretty Sally!
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives.

He scarcely knew he sang, but the vibrant tenor, lifting across the scent of the wisteria, came clearly to the girl at the piano. For a moment Daunt's fingers played on as he listened with a strained wonder. Then the music ceased with a discord and she came quickly through the opened window.

The song was written from Daunt's lips. In the instant that she stood outlined on the broad piazza, a fierce snarling yelp and a clatter came from within the house and there rang out a wren-like Japanese warbling. An outer door flew open and the huge figure of Dr. Bersohn ran out, pursued by a deep white shadow, while the air thrilled to the savage cry of a hound, shaken with rage.

"Hun, Barbara!" The ambassador's voice came from the doorway. But the white, moonlit figure, in his gauzy evening gown, turned too late. Empty handed, Daunt dashed for the piazza, as, with a crash, a heavy porch chair, hurled by a Japanese house boy, penned the animal for an instant in a corner. He caught the white figure up in his arms, springing into the shade of the wisteria arbor, and set her feet on its high railing. The voice from the doorway called again, sharply:

"This way, doctor! Quick!"

The wolfhound, trailing its broken chain, had leaped the barrier and was launched straight at the crouching expert. The latter had dragged something small and square from his pocket and he seemed now to hold this out before him. Daunt, wronching a clout from the arbor railing, felt a puff of cold wind strike his face, and something like an elfin note of music, high and thin as an insect's, drifted across the confusion. He rushed forward with his improvised weapon—then stopped short. The dog was no longer there.

The ambassador made an exclamation. He stepped down and poured under the piazza. Even in the dim light the long space was palpably empty. The head boy spoke rapidly in Japanese and pointed toward the gate.

"He says he must have jumped down this side," explained Daunt, "and run out to the street. He's nowhere in the garden, at any rate. We can see every inch. How surprising!"

Bersohn had sat down on the edge of the piazza. He was crouched forward. His big frame was shaken with violent shudders. Suddenly his head went back, and he began to laugh—a jarring, grating, weird mania that seemed to burst suddenly beyond his control.

CHAPTER VI. THE WEB OF THE SPIDER.

BERSOHN walked away, fighting desperately with his ghastly spasm of merriment. It was a nervous affection which had haunted him for years. It dated from a time when in South America, in an acute crisis of desperate personal hazard, he had laughed the first peal of that strange laughter of which he was to be over after afraid.

Before long the paroxysms ceased and he grew calmer. The quiet road had merged into a busier thoroughfare. He walked on slowly until his command was regained. West of the outer moat of the Imperial grounds he turned up a pleasant laneway street and presently entered his own gate. The house, into which he let himself with a latchkey, was a rambling modern two story structure of yellow stucco. The lower floor was practically unused, since his tenant lived above and did not entertain. The upper floor, beside the hall, contained a small bedroom, a bath and dressing room and a large, barely furnished laboratory. The latter was lined on two sides with glass covered shelves which gave glimpses of rows of books, of steel shells, metal and crystal retorts and crucibles, the delicate paraphernalia of organic chemistry and complicated instruments whose use no one knew save himself—a fit setting for the great student, the peer of Offenbach in

J. P. Baker, 123 W. Milwaukee, St. Janesville, Wis.

Munich and of Mayer in Vienna. Against the wall leaned a drafting board, on which, planned down by thumb tacks, was a sketch plan of a revolving turret. From a bracket in a corner—the single airy touch of delicacy in a chamber almost sordid in its appointments—swung a bamboo cage with a brown hewn or Japanese such, a downy puff of feathers with its head under its wing.

In the upper hall Bersohn's Japanese head boy had been sitting at a small desk writing. Bersohn entered the laboratory, opened a safe let into the wall and put into it something which he took from his pocket. Then he donned a dressing gown the boy brought and threw himself into a huge leather chair.

"Make me some coffee," Ishida, he said. For an hour Bersohn sat smoking in the silent room—no cigar after another, deep in thought. All at once there came a chirp from the cage in the corner and its tiny occupant, waivered by the electric light, burst into song as clear and joyous as though before its free wing lay all the meads of Eden. Bersohn rose and, whistling, opened the cage door and held out an enormous forefinger. The little creature stepped on it, and, held to his chest, it rubbed its feathered head against it. For a moment he crooned and whistled to it, then held his finger to the cage and it obediently resumed its perch and its melody. The expert took a dark cloth from a hook and threw it over the cage and the song ceased.

Bersohn went to the door of the room and fastened it, then unlocked a desk and spread some papers on the table. One was a chart, drawn to the minutest scale, of the harbor of Yokohama. On it had been marked a group of projectile shaped spots suggesting a bottle of vessels at anchor. For a long time he worked absently, setting down figures, measuring with infinite pains, computing angles—always with reference to a small square in the map's inner margin, marked in red. He covered many sheets of paper with his calculations. Finally he took another paper from the safe and compared the two. He lifted his head with a look of satisfaction.

Just then he thought he heard a slight noise from the hall. Swiftly and noiselessly as a great cat he crossed to the door and opened it.

Ishida sat in his place scratching laboriously with a foreign pen.

Bersohn's glance of suspicion altered. "What are you working at so industriously, Ishida?" he asked.

The Japanese boy displayed the sheet with pride.

It was an ode to the coming squadron. Bersohn read it:

Welcome, foreign men-of-war!
Young and age,
Man and woman,
None but you welcome!
And how our reaches know you but to satisfy.
Nor the Babylon nor the Parian you to tempt.
He it ever so humble,
Yet of tidbit with our heart!
What may not be accomplished Rising-Sun?
By it, Ishida, with best compliment,
Bersohn laid it down with a word: "Beneficent Work of Nature."

Through the assisted immigration of plants the timber resources of America have been enlarged and its orchards have been rendered more productive and valuable. Grain crops have been made surer and larger and food for domestic animals has become more varied and more satisfactory.

of approbation. "Well done," he said. "You will be a famous English scholar before long." He went into the dressing room, but an instant later recollected the papers on the table. The servant was in a chamber almost sordid in its appointments—swung a bamboo cage with a brown hewn or Japanese such, a downy puff of feathers with its head under its wing.

Alone once more, Ishida resented himself at his small desk. He tore the poem to small bits and put them into the waste paper basket. Then, rubbing the ends of his ink on his stone tablet, he drew a mass of Japanese writing toward him and, with brush held vertically between thumb and forefinger, began to trace long, delicate characters at the top of the first sheet, thus:

In the Japanese phrase this might literally be translated as follows:

CROSS CURRENTS OF LIVING WATER
THUNDER ON, WORK EFFECT

Which in conventional English is to say:

A STUDY OF CROSS CURRENTS IN THEIR EFFECT ON SUBMARINE MINES
SUBMITTED WITH DEFERENCE

This finished, he sealed it in an envelope, took a book from the breast of his kimono and began to read. Its cover bore the words:

"Second English Primer in Words of Two Syllables."

Its inner pages, however, belied the legend. It was Ishida's "Influence" of "Sea Power on History."

Yet Lieutenant Ishida of the Japanese Imperial navy, one-time student in Monterey, Cal., now in special secret service, read abstractedly.

He was wondering why Dr. Bersohn should have in his possession a technical naval chart and what was the meaning of certain curious markings he had made on it.

In the garden the moon's faint light glimmered on the broad silvery leaves of the camellias and the delicate traceries of red maple foliage. At its farther side, amid flowering bushes, which cast long indigo shadows, stood a small pagoda brought many years before from Korea, and toward this Daunt and the girl, whom he had held for a breathless moment in his arms, strolled slowly along a winding pebbled path translucent with the flickering shadows of little leaves. The structure had a small platform, and here on a bench they sat down, the fragrant garden spread out before them.

Great Prize Campaign Almost Half Over

NOTICE

In sending in subscriptions by mail be sure and give the R. P. D. number the subscriber lives on. This is very important.

People are displaying personal interest in the different candidates in the Gazette prize campaign. The great event is now the theme of conversation in hundreds of homes throughout this section of the state and the enthusiasm displayed resembles an epidemic sweeping everything before it.

That it has been such a success is due to the fact that the young women who are vitally interested in it have approached their cause in their many "friends." The Gazette itself has done what it considers right in the matter and it will continue to do so. Impartiality will be the motto, and those interested may be assured the most thorough and beautiful Schiller photos, diamond rings, business scholarships and gold watches offered will go to the ladies who rightly win them and who through popularity and dint of effort are solely entitled to them. The field is filled with bright young women in whom the public is very much interested and the Gazette feels that a popular elixir has been struck in inaugurating a campaign of this kind and carrying it on so successfully and impartially.

All ladies should not think twice before letting this great chance of a lifetime pass by. One thing to remember there are to be no losers; every candidate is to receive at least in cash the 5 per cent of the money she raises in. This campaign closes in about four weeks, and the young lady who puts forth her best efforts will have no cause for regret December 23.

Don't be governed by what the other ladies tell you. Often times they will overestimate in your presence their chance of winning and number of votes held in reserve, and sometimes put all their reserve votes to their standing now just to discourage you and get you to withdraw. The person that makes people think they have a big reserve are generally the ones that get left.

Don't be deceived by allowing such reports to thus dominate your future; if you do you will not succeed. Make up your mind today to win one of these elegant prizes; lose no time for the next four weeks, and on December 23 you will have occasion to receive the congratulations of your friends.

that now stand ready to help you just for the asking. Don't forget that the auto, phonos, diamonds, scholarships and gold watches of this high class cost money. You have always wanted one, or the other, well, here is your opportunity with no chance for you to lose.

Future Orders.

Don't give up a party as a subscriber, city or country, simply because he is taking some other paper and paid in advance for it. Take his subscription to The Gazette and when his subscription expires on the other paper he will begin to receive The Gazette.

MELENE FREECE

THE BEST HORSEWOMAN OF HER YEARS IN THE WORLD.

Mrs. Helen Dorothy Freece, the 14 year old English girl who has outshined the patrons of the International Hunt and the patrons of the International Horse Show in New York by her daring feats and clever riding. She is carrying with her a string of seven backs and hunters for the show. Lord and Lady Deedes, the latter formerly Viscountess, have returned to New York for the first time since their marriage to act as judges at the Madison Square Gardens event. Lieutenant Leon Repe, instructor at the School of Equitation at Ypres, Belgium, one of the world's most famous horsemen, is competing at the show.

A HOUSEHOLD MEDICINE.

That stops coughs quickly and cures colds is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. Anna Peters, 2526 Jefferson St., St. Omaha, Neb., says: "I have recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold and my neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Everyone in our neighborhood speaks highly of it." For night coughing, dryness and tickling in the throat, hoarseness and all coughs and colds, take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Contains no opiates. Always in a yellow package. Badger Drug Co.

Gone Back on a Faithful Helper. A certain comic weekly has buried the mother-in-law joke from its pages. After it has grown old in the service? Ingratitude.

Rose Garden of World. Bulgaria, the rose garden of the world, supplies the American market with the bulk of the perfume, attar of roses.

Only a Few. There are only two or three girls beautiful enough to be slouchy.—Alchison Globe.

GIVES QUICK ACTION.

J. P. Baker, Druggist, reports that A SINGLE DOSE of simple buckwheat bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adlonka, the new German appendicitis remedy, relieves constipation or gas on the stomach, almost INSTANTLY.

HEALTH HINTS

Sodium Phosphate is a liver stimulant. It increases the flow of bile which is necessary to the proper digestion of food. A good many forms of indigestion and constipation are promptly relieved by a few doses of Effervescent Sodium Phosphate taken before breakfast each morning. Stimulate the liver and the trouble is gone. Sodium Phosphate that has always been sold at 50c a bottle for a few days we will sell at 25c a bottle. Get it today. Give it a trial. You will be much pleased. Mr. Pfennig, our graduate pharmacist and chemist, can give you any other information you wish about this or any other remedy. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts., the drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.
